BLAME PLACED BY ICC FOR PENNSY WRECK

Failure of Freight Engineer to Heed Signals Caused Crash, Report Says.

The Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington today blamed a failure to carry out signal operations for the wreck of three Pennsylvania trains which claimed 19 lives near Lucas on Dec. 13, the Associated Press reported.

The ICC stated that failure of the second of two wrecked freights "to operate in accordance with signal indications" left wreckage strewn about the tracks and obstructed the path of the crack passenger train, the Golden Triangle. The ICC report listed 139 injured.

At the time of the wreck, Pennsylvania railroad officials said the first freight had stopped because of a broken air hose and that the second freight, following close behind, plowed into the standing train. The wreckage of the two freights was strewn in the patch of the fast double-header passenger train.

The two freight trains were headed east and the passenger train was westbound when they piled up at Coulter, a short distance east of Lucas.

Trainmen Killed.

Crewmen killed in the wreck were the fireman and brakeman on the second freight and the engineer and fireman on the second passenger locomotive.

H. E. Harbaugh, engineer of the first passenger locomotive, escaped death when he was thrown from the cab by the impact.

An investigation of the wreck by Pennsylvania officials immediately following the tragedy, cited Louis C. Petoskey, engineer of the second freight as responsible, charging that he failed to heed three amber warning signals as he approached the halted freight.

Petoskey maintained he received clear signals all the way to the scene. He jumped clear of his train after setting the automatic brakes. His fireman, Robert Keith of Toledo, and brakeman, F. J. Hughes of Sandusky were both killed.

VETS TO SUPPLY TRAILER SITES

Richland county's 20 trailer homes for veterans will not be located at a central site but will be allocated to each former GI for placement on property supplied by himself, County Commissioner C. L. Shoup said today.

As part of that decision, the ex-serviceman desiring to live in one of the new 27-foot two-room mobile homes will have to supply the commissioners with a lease for the property—at $1—and provide his own utility services, Shoup said.

In turn, the commissioners will give the veteran a lease permitting him to live in the trailer at a monthly rental charge tentatively set at $12 per month, Shoup said.

"There are too many difficulties in providing a central site," the commissioner said. "It would result in further delay and would mean additional cost to the county in supplying utility services. By using individual sites we will have money left with which to purchase a few more of the trailers and house more families."

Meanwhile, the commissioners are wondering what to do about 49 applications they have received for the 20 homes. Originally they thought they would allocate them on a "first come, first served" basis, but now "maybe we'll draw names from a hat because of the problems some veterans may have in supplying a suitable site," Shoup said.

Terms of the trailer leases include provisions that the veterans will use the mobile units only as homes, will not permit them to become unsanitary, a nuisance or fall into a state of disrepair and will assume all expenses in location, use and occupancy. Commissioners reserve the right to cancel the leases "for good cause."

RAIN-FLOODED BASEMENTS PUMPED OUT

Complaints of flooded basements deluged the switchboard at city hall for a brief period yesterday as heavy rains also jammed traffic at the Park avenue east subway.

Street Superintendent C. H. Hebel said today that at least 15 calls were received from homes where basements were flooded. City pumps cleared the water from two of the homes, he said, but by the time other calls were answered a lessening in the downpour relieved sewers sufficiently to permit the water to clear.

It marked the third time in less than a year that the city's northwest section has been invaded by high water.

Sewers Inadequate.

Flooding of one of the basements, Hebel said, was the result of the occupants' failure to put in a drain plug As a result, back water from the sewer invaded the basement.

Flooded condition again were traced by city officials to the city's inadequate sewer system. Plans are underway for the addition of at least one heavy-duty sewer.

Plans for a heavy-duty relief sewer in the Orange-Wayne streets area are taking shape. Council is discussing plans for a 42-inch storm sewer and re-vamping of certain streets as a water control measure in portions of the oft-flooded area.

Highways Closed.

Councilman Clifford Knarr, chairman of the sewer committee, said that a second meeting is to be held soon to discuss "ways and means" of pushing forward the flood control plan.

State routes 97 and 545, closed last night by high water, were reopened today after rain-swelled creeks and rivers receded, spokesmen at the state highway garage said.

A six-mile stretch of Route 97 between Butler and Bellville was re-opened at midnight. Route 545 north and south of Mansfield was re-opened at daylight. Both were closed around 8 p. m. yesterday

Cool Driver Proves He's Smart Driver

THE DALLES, Ore. —(INS)— A cool-headed driver told today how he avoided drowning by staying in his submerged car after it had dived into eight feet of water in the Columbia river.

Phil L. Ryan of Seattle drove off a wharf into a ferry slip as the ferry pulled out. He tried to open the door, but the water pressure kept it shut.

Fighting back his panic, he stayed in the car five or six minutes until water seeping in had equalized the pressure and the water had risen to his neck.

Then he opened the door and shot to the surface before amazed onlookers, who pulled him out.

New Cold Wave Follows Storm

(By International News Service)

A new cold wave moved into the Middle West today in the wake of storms across the nation which caused the death of at least 25 persons and injured hundreds of others.

Property damage was estimated at thousands of dollars.

Today's sub-freezing temperatures were expected to turn slush into masses of ice, adding new hazards to already seriously hampered travel.

Tornadoes ripped communities in three southern states yesterday, after striking earlier in Missouri and Arkansas. An estimated 14 persons were killed by the tornadoes and at least 60 were injured.

The hardest hit city in the Middle West was Milwaukee, Wis., where traffic was paralyzed by 17 inches of drifting snow. Four deaths there were ascribed to the storm and two other persons lost their lives elsewhere in Wisconsin.

An early death toll of eight from tornadoes was increased when destructive winds whipped across two counties in western Tennessee and also struck communities in Alabama and Georgia.

Homes Wrecked.

Two were dead and 14 injured in the Tallassee area of Alabama. Thirty-seven houses were wrecked

In Evergreen, Ala, three were dead and 25 injured. Most of the town was flattened and searchers were still seeking victims.

In Crockett county, Tennessee, one person was dead and an undisclosed number injured.

Five fatalities in Michigan were attributed to the weather.

The coldest weather ever recorded in North America—78.7 degrees below zero—was listed in Snag, Yukon territory, as one feature of yesterday's bad weather.

BYRD PREPARES TO CROSS POLE

LITTLE AMERICA—(U.P.)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd made his jet-assisted skiplanes ready today for a flight across the South Pole which he said may make "the most important geographical discovery remaining in the world."

"We don't want to lose any time starting out on our new flights," Byrd said.

Mechanics removed the wheels from the dual wheel-ski landing apparatus used when the six converted DC-3 transports—known as Navy R-4-D transports—flew to the icecap base yesterday from the carrier Philippine Sea.

Exuding enthusiasm about the discovery possibilities, Byrd traced a line with his finger across a map of the vast ice fastness on whose edge the Little America base stands.

"I'd like somebody to get into that vast unknown area on the other side of the Pole," he said.

"What a reward it would be if, for instance, they found a big volcanic area there with boiling water coming out of the ground. That would be of tremendous importance biologically, geologically and geographically."

He emphasized his belief that the Antarctic is an "untouched reservoir of natural resources."

REP. M'GREGOR OPENS HOUSE 'GAG RULE' FIGHT

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The old fight against "gag rule" in congress is on again. Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) has raised the issue this time.

"Gag rule" is the term used when a committee maneuvers a bill to the floor under a rule forbidding any change or amendment.

Opponents want what is called an "open rule," which permits any member to offer amendments.

Strangely enough, the current offensive was launched from the Republican side, which has control in this congress. McGregor started it because he was irked, he said, by application of the "gag rule" by the ways and means committee to the luxury tax bill.

'We're All 21.'

"After all," he told a reporter, "we're all 21 and we're elected to congress on the assumption that we had brains enough to legislate. I have immense respect for the ways and means committee but I don't think any 25 men (committee membership) should have complete control, and be allowed to say of any bill: 'Here it is—take it or leave it— as is."

That, McGregor added, was one of the reasons he voted against extending the luxury tax law, despite its unanimous approval by the ways and means committee, made up mostly of old time experts on revenue matters.

Paragraph by Paragraph.

"I believe my people sent me to this legislative body to consider each paragraph of every bill that comes before us," he said, "and not to be forced to follow the dictates of one individual or a small group of individuals. There are 435 of us.

"I firmly believe that every bill that comes before congress should come under an open rule, so that the membership will have an opportunity to amend such legislation. I think that each bill and every paragraph of each bill should be passed or defeated on its merits or demerits."

TELLS PARTY HE WON'T RUN FOR CITY JOB

Dems Still Looking For Mayor Candidate; 2 More Councilmen Announce For Reelection.

Three more city officials climbed off the political fence today, two of them revealing they will be candidates in the May primaries, and the other, City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner, announcing he won't seek reelection.

Three office-holders are still in the "undecided" column. They are Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, and Councilmen Harry J. Hollingsworth and Clifford Knarr, all Republicans.

Announcing for reelection were two Democrats. Fred Miller, veteran councilman from the Fifth ward and Charles O Anglin, councilman-at-large.

The Democrats, however, still have no announced candidates for mayor.

Councilmen Announce.

Miller said that he would run while Democratic party leaders said that Anglin has told them he will run.

Solicitor Wagner, completing his sixth year in office, told the News-Journal that he will not run. He said he is retiring from the office because "I want to give full time to private practice of law." He has been elected solicitor three times.

GOP Meets Tonight.

Meanwhile, Democratic party leaders gave a partial report on the progress of that party's slate, and Republicans announced a "ticket-talk" meeting for tonight.

Only announcement the Democrats will make concerning their slate is that City Auditor Paul L. Kelley will run for re-election and that Anglin will also seek re-election. Kelley had previously announced his candidacy.

Atty. George W. Biddle, chairman of the Democratic central committee, indicated that other spots on the ticket are still open but would make no statement concerning potential candidates.

He said party leaders "considered a great many people" at a meeting last night. He said by Wednesday the party will have a "more or less" complete ticket.

Republicans are to meet tonight at 7:30 at the city building, Charles J. Stecker, member of the GOP executive committee, said, to discuss that party's slate.

Ralph Hardy, chairman of the Republican executive committee, said that the committee would take no formal action in organizing a slate until shortly before filing deadline Then, he said, if the slate of candidates isn't filled, the committee will attempt to fill the ticket.

ATTORNEYS PONDER LIPPY LEO'S TIRADE

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—A panel of prominent attorneys today studied possible contempt action against Leo (The Lip) Durocher for his attack on Judge George A. Dockweiler because of a threat to annul actress Laraine Day's California divorce decree.

Judge Dockweiler appointed the panel to review not only Durocher's tirade at him but the entire Day "double divorce" case

In his statement, Durocher assailed Judge Dockweiler as a "most unethical and publicity-conscious servant of the people."

'Expectancy' Gifts Reward For Time-Off

WILLARD — Eight women employes of the Pioneer Rubber company of Willard today considered the firm a "square" employer.

The company has sent a dozen diapers each to eight workers who are taking time off to have babies. The scarce articles were uncovered recently in a warehouse, and company officials said evidently they were acquired during the war.

A spokesman strongly emphasized that only a few diapers were left.

SENATE PUSHES BOOZE INQUIRY

Committee Shows Caution to Avoid Giving Witnesses 'Immunity Bath.'

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The state senate's special liquor investigating committee will move with caution in selecting its witnesses to avoid giving an "immunity bath" to wrong-doers, it was learned today.

A section of the general code which grants immunity from prosecution to persons testifying before legislative committees was cited by Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert in a radio speech last night.

Sen. Roscoe R. Walcutt, R., Columbus, chairman of the committee, will not call witnesses to testify if there is any indication that their actions may make them liable for prosecution.

Herbert said the senate is conducting its investigation with the view of correcting abuses which may have taken place by strengthening statutes.

Extends Into Past.

Among the witnesses which the committee was given power to subpoena in its investigation which may extend back as far as 1944 are officials of the previous Democratic state administration.

Sen. Roscoe R. Walcutt, R, Franklin, committee chairman, said the investigation will begin in three or four days when a plan of procedure is completed.

State highway patrolmen will not be used in the investigation, Walcutt said.

As the committee conferred on choosing a staff of investigators, it was understood that Frank J. Collopy, a Columbus attorney, was mentioned in connection with naming a chief investigator.

The probe, authorized Wednesday by a senate resolution, will include liquor department activities during the past two years and may even go back into the administration of Former Gov. John W. Bricker.

RETROACTIVE PAY GIVEN 300

Payment of a one-cent fund for the elimination of sex differentials and establishment of a new minimum hiring rate in each job classification for some 300 salaried employes was made by the Westinghouse Electric corporation today, George Braen, president of Local 759, UEW-CIO, reported.

The pay, retroactive to May 9, settlement date of last year's strike, averages $1.50 to $5 per week for those who were working on May 9 and after. It is retroactive only to the hiring date of those employed since that time, Braen said.

In lump sums, the pay will vary from a few dollars to $150 for different workers, Braen said. He stated that it was "the last detail" of the strike settlement and was negotiated last fall. He had no total figure on the amount the company is paying.

ACTION CALLED ABJECT DEFEAT BY CHURCHILL

Sensational Decision Rocks London as Evacuation of LONDON—(INS)—A sensation unparalleled since war days was created in London today with announcement that Great Britain has ordered evacuation of women and children, along with other "non-essential persons" from Palestine.

Winston Churchill branded the move as "the road to abject defeat and shame" and called upon the United States to share Britain's burdens in the Holy Land under auspices of the United Nations.

With all British women and children ordered out of the Holy Land by Tuesday next aboard ships dispatched by the admiralty for this express purpose, London was deluged with startling headlines.

There were official announcements of all the drastic measures taken, and there was debate in the house of commons.

* * *

Warns of Bloodshed.

Col. Oliver Stanley warned that Britain must handle the situation with a firm hand or see Palestine turned into a "bloody hell for Briton, Jew and Arab alike."

Churchill followed his Conservative team-mate with a bitter criticism of Prime Minister Clement Richard Attlee's government for its action in granting reprieves to Jewish extremists whose convictions had resulted in anti-British measures that included kidnaping of two prominent residents.

Churchill said:

"This is the road to abject defeat and shame . . .

"We have broken our pledges to the Jews . . .

"Finding ourselves incapable of carrying out our promises, we have no right to say we are staying (in Palestine) for motives of honor.

"If there is no call to honor, then responsibility for stopping civil war between Jew and Arab ought to be borne by the United Nations—not this poor, overburdened and heavily-injured country. . . .

"When the present conference is over and unless the United States comes in with us on a 50-50 basis to shoulder an agreed policy, then we should lay our mandate at the feet of the United Nations."

* * *

Speculation Grows.

Disclosure that Sir Alan Cunningham, high commissioner for Palestine, had ordered evacuation of women and children together with other "non-essential persons" which included correspondents and even clergymen led to a tornado of speculation.

Mosche Shertok, speaking on behalf of the Jewish agency, said:

"It is a great shock. It is drastic action. The reason is not known to us but it must be in anticipation of some trouble."

Stanley, who was secretary of state for the colonies in the Churchill cabinet, charged the Labor government with weakness in handling the turbulent situation in Palestine.

He said Prime Minister Clement Attlee's government has no definite policy, and added that unless they can initiate a firm one and prevent further "humiliations," the British had better "clear out."

Warning that quitting Palestine and admitting inability to carry out the mandate there would "be a signal for a bloody civil war," the Conservative leader foresaw "consequences" if Britain does not tackle the situation.

AFL ORGANIZERS WIN PAY BOOST

MIAMI, Fla. —(AP)— The AFL turned "employer" today, giving $20 weekly pay increases to 200 union organizers.

Among the union promoters affected are organizers in Alaska, said AFL President William Green.

Green said the pay of organizers had been boosted from an average range of $60-$80 to a range of $80-$100.

The AFL president did not detail the organizational program in Alaska but admitted to a news conference that the labor organization was putting on pressure to bring workers in the building construction and fishing and canning industries into the AFL.

Green said that telegrams from the Screen Actors' guild and other Hollywood movie interests, urging peaceful settlement of jurisdictional contests such as held up film production a year ago, would be acted on today.

Joe Palooka Joins N-J Comic Family Monday

That popular world's heavyweight champion will play the leading role in the twentieth strip to be offered in The News-Journal's effort to bring to newspaper readers of Mansfield the best features available.

Joe Palooka and his manager, Knobby Walsh, long have been among the most popular of the comic strip characters in American newspapering.

Their addition enables The News-Journal family to present a page of comics that includes virtually every leading comic strip now offered.

* * *

JOE BECOMES a member of a News-Journal comic family that already includes such popular characters as "Blondie," "Orphan Annie," "Dick Tracy," "Li'l Abner," "Brick Bradford," "Terry and the Pirates," "Superman," "Gasoline Alley," "Rip Kirby," "Penny," "Jiggs," "Mickey Mouse," "The Gumps," "Abbie and Slats," "Popeye," "Nebbs," "Just Kids."

They all come to you daily on one carefully planned page, where you may enjoy them without hunting through the paper.

* * *

BEING A NEW character for News-Journal readers, Joe Palooka may need some introduction. He won the world's heavyweight championship long before the war. Even before the Japanese attack that sent the United States into war, Joe became a "Gi." He refused promotions because he wanted to serve among the enlisted men.

He performed heroic deeds while serving in the European and Eastern war theaters.

HIS FIANCEE, Ann Howe, daughter of a wealthy man, became a Red Cross worker overseas but the fates of war kept Joe and Ann apart most of the time.

Now Ann has been discharged from service. She flew to the United States, telephoned Joe she would fly to his home. They planned an immediate wedding.

But on a flight from the west coast, Ann's plane crashed near Laramie, Wyo Joe flew to the scene and joined a searching party. A locket and shoe belonging to Ann were found but no other traces appeared and the search was abandoned — by all except Joe.

* * *

JOE IS SO Certain Ann still is alive, he continues the search alone. He rides deep into the mountains and finds a lonely cabin. A surly cowboy orders him off the place. When Joe camps nearby for the night, the cowboy steals his horses and provisions.

Unknown to Joe, Ann, dazed and shocked from her experience, is in that cowboy's cabin, watched over by the mother of the man who stole Joe's supplies.

"Jess is a bad 'un," the man's mother tells Ann, as she explains that Jess found Ann wandering near the wrecked plane which he searched for valuables.

* * *

NOW, AS JOE'S story comes to The News-Journal, Walsh has joined him and has persuaded Joe that he should prepare for another championship fight as a means of [illegible]rning money to finance his search for Ann.

Monday, you may take up the story from there. Watch for it.

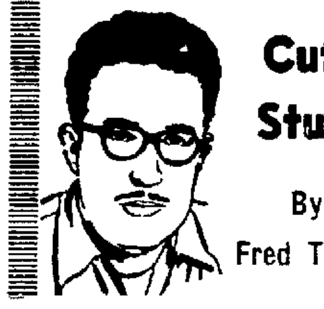
MANSFIELD-ASHLAND READY FOR CAGE DATE



Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

THE KEY to the latest possible battle of the bucks between our two major professional football leagues seems to be in the hands of the war department. . . . An affirmative answer on the furloughs that Mr. Outside (Glenn Davis) and Mr. Inside (Doc Blanchard) have requested would make the Charley Trippi bidding look like peanuts. . . . And then there is always the possibility that the two terrific leather luggers might take the prerogative given to all young men who have been in the service of their country and resign their commissions. . . . Apparently, however, they wish to finish their army service.

Plenty of people say that Davis and Blanchard took an easy out in going to West Point while the war was on.

They forget that the two lads would have become second looeys come June and immediately went overseas had the war still been raging. . . . But the hue and cry will be raised if the war department does grant the four-month furloughs only because the lads asking happen to be named Davis and Blanchard. . . . If "Sam Jones" had asked for the same leave no one would hear about the request . . . Unnoticed in the furore is the fact that Barney Poole, quite some shakes as an end, has also asked for a leave . . . Poole will probably join the New York Giants where his older brother Jim was a first-string end for seven years.

A'S VICTORY SKEIN TOTALS TEN STRAIGHT

Tyger Sophs Will Try To Repeat Over J-V's.

Mansfield and Ashland high school basketball teams have an all important date tonight at the Ashland high school gym at 8:30.

But as usual all will not be love and kisses when the two titans of the basketball world hold their second tryst of the year. The A's of Ashland will be trying to uphold their honor (10 straight victories) while the Tygers may get a little fresh and slap down the Taylor Tots

Ashland has vaulted right up among Ohio's top notch cage combines with the sparkling streak and must be rated as the No. 1 party in the battle tonight. The A's slipped up on the men of Vern Hoffman to record a 49 to 43 triumph three weeks ago after the Tygers had led for 25 minutes.

Wins Four Tilts.

Since that defeat, Mansfield has won four of five games, losing only to Fremont Ross. Included in the streak were victories over two of Ohio's better teams—Springfield and Warren Harding. The Tygers have won nine of 14 games this season while Ashland has romped home on the long end of the count 11 times in 12 outings.

Tonight's battle will be the 70th time that the two arch rivals have locked horns on the cage court. Mansfield holds a 36 to 33 lead in the series but the A's are closing in mighty fast. Ashland now has won the last three engagements.

Ashland's auditorium-gymnasium is made to order for the Taylor Tots and they are almost unbeatable on the home grounds. They have not dropped a decision there this season and the old-style square bankboards seem grooved to the A's shots. They made a surprising 37.7 per cent of shots in romping past Barberton, 51 to 39, Tuesday night.

The present edition of Bengal basketeers has played on only two stage-gyms this year, losing to Bellevue and Fremont.

Talk Team.

Ashland will have the height advantage with Dick Messner, Don Drebus and Dave Burns hovering around or above the six-foot mark. They accounted for 36 of the Ashland points in the first clash. Bob Harpster and Dick Cooper round out the A's starting five.

Hoffman will use the same lineup that opened against Ashland in the previous game, Tom Bloor and Ralph Majors, forwards; Chuck Sisco, center and Nick Gagich and Ollie Cline, guards. Sisco and sub forward Jerry Robfogel are the only six-footers likely to see action for Mansfield.

Bloor leads the Tyger scoring column with 147 points with Sisco in second place with 122.

The Mansfield sophomores collide with the Ashland Jay Vee's in the preliminary tussle at 7 p. m. Fred Staub's Bengal cubs ambushed the Jay Vee's, 43 to 21, in their previous battle with Bernie Weaver getting 17 points.

Mansfied plays at the Senior high gym tomorrow night with Youngstown Chaney providing the opposition. Chaney has six lettermen off the 1945-46 squad that lost to the Bengals, 44 to 34.

The Tyger sophomores play the Ontario varsity in the preliminary contest at 7 p. m.

Ford has compiled 68 field goals and 30 foul shots for 166 points, an aerage of 15.1. Stake has collected 59 two-pointers and 22 gratis heaves for 140, a 13.6 average.

Maglott Third.

Estley Maglott, of the league leading Butler Bulldogs, clung to his No. 3 spot by a mere margin of three points. Maglott has a total of 136 points Bob Hampton, Plymouth forward scored 52 fielders and 29 charity tosses to rank fourth with 133.

Going into action tonight, Coach Ed Wysocki's Bulldogs can clinch the Richland county title by smashing Coach Dick Casad's Ontario quintet at Butler. The Bulldogs of Butler have won 11 straight county classics. Ontario has won seven of its 11 contests.

Butler stopped the Ontario combine 38 to 11 in their first contest this season.

Lexington's Minutemen are favored to capture their ninth county loop game when they entertain Union. Coach John Rees's Minutemen annihilated Union 42 to 24 earlier in loop play.

Lucas invades the Shiloh court in search of its fourth county win. Shiloh suffered a 40 to 20 loss in the first tilt with Lucas. Bellville plays host to Plymouth and will be seeking its eighth victory against three defeats. Bellville squeezed by Plymouth, 32 to 31, previously.

Yanks Take Steps

NEW YORK —(INS)— The New York Yankees took steps today to bring two of their most stubborn holdouts, both pitchers, into line.

Prexy Larry MacPhail announced he will confer with Spud Chandler, ace of the New York mound staff, in St. Petersburg, Fla., on Feb. 20.

The other hurler, Floyd Bevins, has been called to New York for a salary huddle.

Halfbacks Drafted

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Halfbacks Ray Terrell and Fred (Dippy) Evans were "drafted" today from the champion Cleveland Browns by Baltimore and Buffalo, respectively, in the All-America conference move to bolster the league's weak teams.

Terrell was used as the Browns' regular right halfback the latter part of last season, but Evans saw little service with the league champions.

In Auto Crash

ATHENS, Ga. —(UP)— Football star Charley Trippi and his new boss, owner Charley Bidwill of the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football league, reported some muscular aches but no other ill effects today from an auto accident.

Trippi's new car skidded on the Atlanta-Athens highway as the men were enroute to the Athens Touchdown club party, and the machine rolled over twice. Trippi was shaken and Bidwill suffered slight leg abrasions.

DA's Big Guns Point at Shady Ring Managers

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rocky Graziano fought for his fistic life before the state athletic commission today, while the district attorney aimed the big guns of his gambling and bribery investigation on undercover fight managers with gangster and criminal records.

Boxing's latest "Golden Boy" at the box office was summoned to appear before the fistic fathers this afternoon to tell his story of a $100,000 offer to throw his scheduled Dec. 27 fight against Ruben Shank of Denver. The fight was called off because Graziano complained of an ailing back.

After Criminals.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said he was "more interested" in uncovering undercover criminals who control fighters through "fronts" acting as managers of record than he was in any other phase of his wide investigation of gambling and fixing.

Elimination of this particular evil—long a topic of common gossip in fight circles—has been regarded by boxing men for years as a vitally-needed reform.

Graziano already had told his story to the district attorney—how three men approached him in Stillman's gymnasium, mid-town training base of most fighters, and made the bribe offer, and that he thought it was "a gag."

In the repetition before Chairman Eddie Eagan and his fellow commissioner, Dr. Clilan D. Powell, Rock-a-bye Rocky, will not only be battling for his rich title shot against Middleweight Champion Tony Zale in Madison Square Garden March 21, but also against possible suspension or revocation of his license.

Wild Cats Meet Rough Riders

NEW LONDON — New London's Wild Cats will be after some lost prestige against the Wakeman Rough Riders on the Wild Cats's hardwoods tomorrow night.

In grooming New London for the Huron county tournament, Coach John Swearengen scheduled the Wakeman-Wild Cat tilt as an extra game. Wakeman dropped the 'Cats 43 to 29 earlier this month.

Swearengen juggled his schedule around with Wellington playing at New London, Feb. 3, and Medina, Feb. 5, to make way for the Huron tourney which commences Feb. 11.

The regularly scheduled game with Greenwich on the opponents court for Feb. 7, was not changed.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4 If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

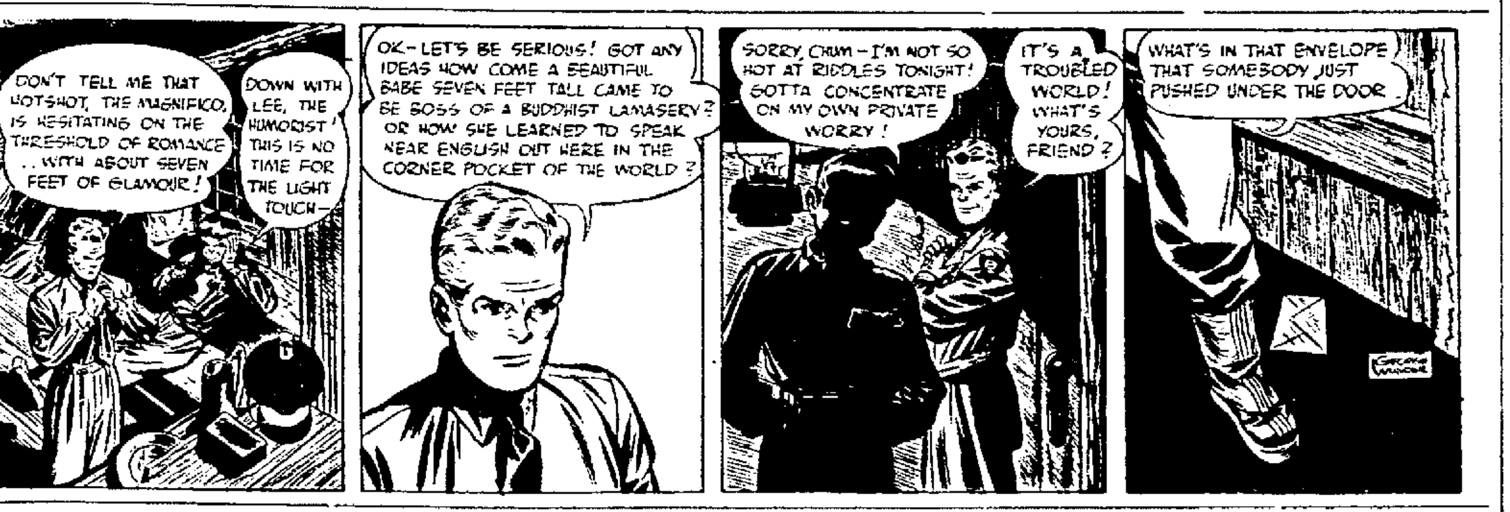
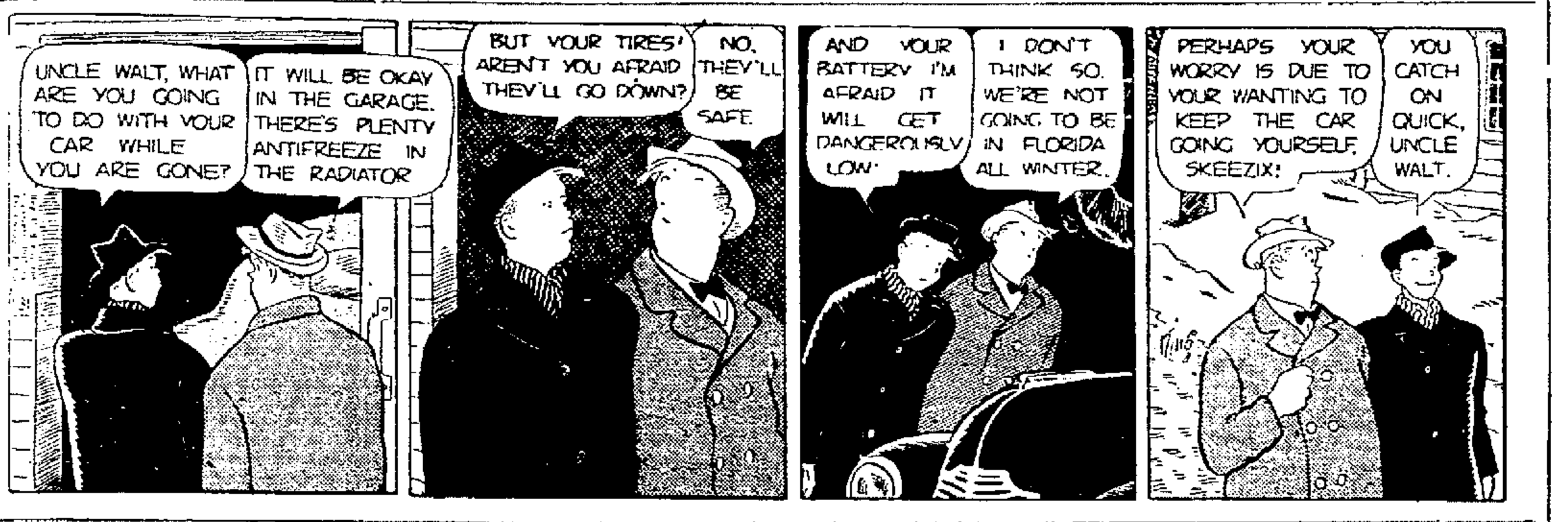
A PERPLEXED CLARK KENT STROLLS TOWARD THE DAILY PLANET SHORTLY AFTER DAWN.
COPYRIGHT 1947, McCLURE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE
COULDN'T SLEEP ALL NIGHT— A TANTALIZING THOUGHT KEPT EVADING MY ATTEMPTS TO GRASP IT. AND I FEEL POSITIVE THAT THOUGHT WAS OF IMPORTANCE!
LATER...
S'MATTER, CLARK? YOU'VE HAD AN ABSENT-MINDED LOOK ABOUT YOU ALL DAY.
MAYBE IT'S BECAUSE I'M ABSENT-MINDED. ("—NO NEARER TO TRAPPING THAT ELUSIVE THOUGHT!—")
BUT IN THE EARLY AFTERNOON!
HAH! I'VE GOT IT!!
1-31

TERRY & PIRATES



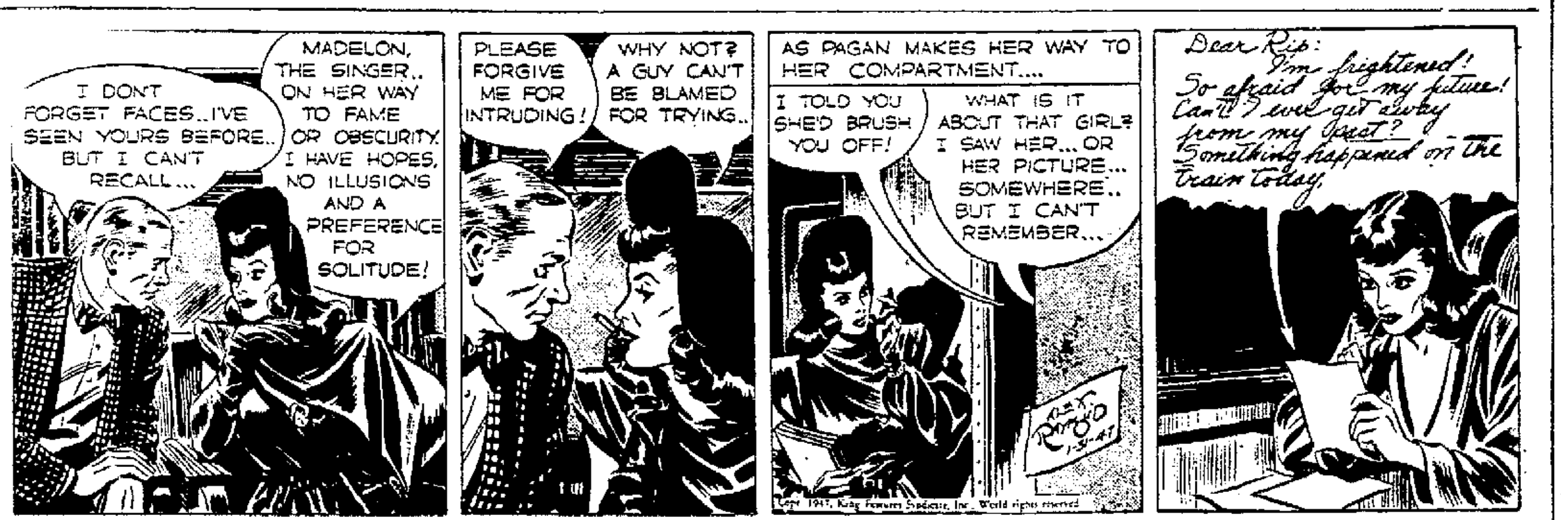
DON'T TELL ME THAT HOTSHOT, THE MAGNIFICO, IS HESITATING ON THE THRESHOLD OF ROMANCE ...WITH ABOUT SEVEN FEET OF GLAMOUR!
DOWN WITH LEE, THE HUMORIST! THIS IS NO TIME FOR THE LIGHT TOUCH—
OK—LET'S BE SERIOUS! GOT ANY IDEAS HOW COME A BEAUTIFUL BABE SEVEN FEET TALL CAME TO BE BOSS OF A BUDDHIST LAMASERY? OR HOW SHE LEARNED TO SPEAK NEAR ENGLISH OUT HERE IN THE CORNER POCKET OF THE WORLD?
SORRY, CHUM—I'M NOT SO HOT AT RIDDLES TONIGHT! GOTTA CONCENTRATE ON MY OWN PRIVATE WORRY!
IT'S A TROUBLED WORLD! WHAT'S YOURS, FRIEND?
WHAT'S IN THAT ENVELOPE THAT SOMEBODY JUST PUSHED UNDER THE DOOR

GASOLINE ALLEY



UNCLE WALT, WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH YOUR CAR WHILE YOU ARE GONE?
IT WILL BE OKAY IN THE GARAGE. THERE'S PLENTY ANTIFREEZE IN THE RADIATOR
BUT YOUR TIRES! AREN'T YOU AFRAID THEY'LL GO DOWN?
NO. THEY'LL BE SAFE
AND YOUR BATTERY I'M AFRAID IT WILL GET DANGEROUSLY LOW
I DON'T THINK SO. WE'RE NOT GOING TO BE IN FLORIDA ALL WINTER.
PERHAPS YOUR WORRY IS DUE TO YOUR WANTING TO KEEP THE CAR GOING YOURSELF, SKEEZIX!
YOU CATCH ON QUICK, UNCLE WALT.

RIP KIRBY



I DON'T FORGET FACES...I'VE SEEN YOURS BEFORE... BUT I CAN'T RECALL...
MADELON, THE SINGER... ON HER WAY TO FAME OR OBSCURITY. I HAVE HOPES, NO ILLUSIONS AND A PREFERENCE FOR SOLITUDE!
PLEASE FORGIVE ME FOR INTRUDING!
WHY NOT? A GUY CAN'T BE BLAMED FOR TRYING...
AS PAGAN MAKES HER WAY TO HER COMPARTMENT....
I TOLD YOU SHE'D BRUSH YOU OFF!
WHAT IS IT ABOUT THAT GIRL? I SAW HER... OR HER PICTURE... SOMEWHERE... BUT I CAN'T REMEMBER...

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Two celebrants finished their ninth round of drinks, breathed alcoholic farewells to their friends, climbed into their car, and began a forty-mile drive back to town.

After a considerable period, one of them observed, "We're getting closer to town."

"Zat so. What gives you that idea?" asked the other one belligerently.

"Well," reasoned the first one, "we're hitting more people."

* * *

They were dancing at the Broadway Tango and Tamale Terrace and the fascinated young man said to the beautiful girl in his arms. "Do your eyes bother you?"

"Why no," she said in some surprise.

"That's funny," said he, "they're killing me."

* * *

The sharpie from up North returned from an Arkansas vacation. "That slow southern drawl is right up my alley," he reported with delight. "You ask a Little Rock girl to kiss you and before she can say no, it's too late."

WE'RE GETTING CLOSER TO TOWN!

ARMY FOOTBALL STARS AFTER LONG FURLOUGHS

By LAWTON CARVER, INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(INS)—Pro football speculation today centered around the strong likelihood that Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard will resign from the army upon graduation from West Point in June unless granted a furlough for the football season.

These two brightest stars of Army's gridiron conquests will be faced by the choice of accepting commissions as second lieutenants, at the current rate of pay for that job, or making, roughly, $125,000 each during the coming fall.

They definitely are committed verbally to join the San Francisco Forty-niners of the All-American conference if they turn professional, and reportedly will be paid up to $50,000 each by Owner Anthony Morabito.

Movie Contracts.

They also have under consideration contracts from MGM to make a movie, for which each will be paid $75 000, with the studio retaining an option for any subsequent screen appearances.

Everything at the moment is contingent upon the war department's attitude toward their unique request that the customary furlough upon graduation from the military academy be postponed until the football season.

The furlough also would probably be extended, if granted, as they will be entitled to only about two months, and the All-America conference season will spread over at least three months.

Meanwhile, the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Detroit Lions of the National league consider themselves still in the running for the services of the players.

Steelers Have Rights.

The Steelers have draft rights to Blanchard and the Lions drew Davis. The two clubs have been unable to get together on a deal to place the two on one club or the other, if they prove to be available, although they are quoted as having said they would play on the same team or not at all.

The All-America conference eliminated this obstacle yesterday through the simple process of the Forty-niners trading three players to the Brooklyn Dodgers in exchange for draft rights to Blanchard. Davis already was the Forty-niners' pick in the draft.

Some of our better minds are now pointing out that it costs the taxpayers about $50,000 to put a future soldier through West Point and that Davis and Blanchard thus should accept their commissions and forget pro football.

That's probably right, but I don't know anybody I'd trust to do that right thing in a situation like this.

Gauthier Quits as Grid Coach Keeps Other OWU Positions

DELAWARE—(AP)—After 26 years as head football coach at Ohio Wesleyan university, George E. Gauthier has resigned to give more time to his job as the school's director of athletics and physical education.

President H. J. Burgstahler accepted Gauthier's resignation with "reluctance," and said no plans for the coming season's football coaching staff were ready for announcement.

Assistant coaches are Bob Strimer and Sterling Geesman.

"Little G," dean of Ohio college football mentors, came to Ohio Wesleyan in 1921 after six years coaching at Michigan Agricultural college in East Lansing. He was an all-round athlete as an undergraduate and, despite his mere 135 pounds, quarterbacked the Aggies during two undefeated seasons.

Ohio Wesleyan. football teams under Gauthier won 123 games, lost 98 and tied 15.

The record goes back to the days when the Battling Bishops earned a "giant-killer" reputation playing a schedule including such major grid powers as Army, Michigan, Ohio State and Syracuse.

Gauthier's teams always were a threat and often a champion in the old and tough Buckeye conference.

Gauthier said in announcing his resignation yesterday that he intended to remain active as a coach during the coming track season.

Rajah's Swat Lore Begins to Pay Off

TUCSON, Ariz. —(INS)— Cleveland baseball fans received good news today from the Indians' spring training camp in Tucson.

Rogers Hornsby's battling school is beginning to pay off as his two star pupils, Pat Seerey, slugging outfielder, and Jim Hegan, lanky catcher, opened class sessions in earnest.

Both boys blasted drives out of the park yesterday under Hornsby's tutelage. Hegan smashed one 370 feet atop the left field wall, and Seerey powered his over the left field fence 385 feet from home plat.

Russia Backing Anti-American Drive, Says Bridges

SOLON URGES STERN POLICY AGAINST USSR

Russia Dominates Europe and Treats China Like Beaten Nation, He Declares.

WASHINGTON — INS — Sen. Bridges (R., N. H.) called today for a stiffening of America's back against Soviet Russia to combat what he termed "an anti-American drive sparked by Moscow."

The senate appropriations chairman charged that the five pending treaties merely have "confirmed" Russian domination in Europe while the USSR in China has "broken its promises" and treats that country like a "conquered nation."

Bridges' statement followed by two days the blistering speech of Sen. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), foreign relations chairman, denouncing the "rigged" elections in Poland.

Lists Reasons.

The New England Republican declared that:

1 Formal inspection of atomic bomb production would be inadequate in "a police state like Russia." International intelligence, he said, will have to be applied.

2 Russia aims to turn Germany into a "satellite and ally." Bridges said if Russia succeeds, "the last chance of saving liberal democratic civilization will be lost."

3 Despite claimed "concessions," Russia has "given up nothing essential. Bridges said the USSR holds what it has "grabbed" and at "double-speed" is consolidating its empire.

4 Former Secretary of State Byrnes "inherited a sorry mess of appeasement and political muddling" but was well-started on restoration of confidence in American leadership when he resigned.

U. S. Loses Prestige.

American prestige was dissipated, he said, when "we allowed Russia to grab the territories of its neighbors and impose its control on a hundred million people through the old familiar strong-arm methods of 'quislingism,' coercion of the electorate and outright terrorism."

Bridges said American diplomats traveled a "humiliating road" before they reached a policy of "patience and firmness."

Bridges said he counted on Marshall to "resist the efforts of a noisy minority typified by Henry Wallace and his fellow traveling entourage" to shift U. S. foreign policy.

The GOP senator scoffed at "gratitude" voiced over Soviet willingness to negotiate treaties after, he said, Russian leaders had been "gumming up the peace for a year and a half, after looting many areas of friend and foe alike."

Wants Free China.

As to China, where the United States has withdrawn its mediation efforts between the Chiang and Communist forces, Bridges said:

"Let's not beat around the bush. We cannot afford to push China into the Soviet orbit. A free, sovereign, independent China is vitally important to the future of freedom in any part of the world.

"Communist fifth column in China did its best to prevent adoption of the democratic constitution and will not exert itself to prevent its application. Meanwhile, it is engaged in a vicious campaign of insults against the United States.

"The campaign, be it noted, is part and parcel of a worldwide anti-American drive sparked by Moscow."

Bridges stated that Russia's campaign to merge Soviet manpower and German technical discipline makes the forthcoming Moscow conference "terribly important." It is there, he said, that Marshall will have his "first and most decisive test."

RENT MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED

WASHINGTON— (AP)—Senator Tobey (R-NH) contended today that someone high in the administration must have been responsible for an almost-issued order to hike rent ceilings 10 percent.

Expressing hope his senate banking committee could find the answer in testimony by government witnesses later today, Chairman Tobey told reporters:

"It is inconceivable that those leaders in the office of temporary controls would have gone ahead without a green light from someone in authority."

The senator suggested that some administration leaders might have planned to present the committee—which opened hearings yesterday on proposed changes in OPA rent control—with an accomplished 10 per cent rise. One bill before the group would raise ceilings 15 per cent.

Several officials have revealed that the order boosting ceilings 10 per cent was on the verge of issuance Wednesday. Late in the day however, the White House said no such order would be forthcoming.

Dairymen Hear Prediction Of Milk Deliveries by Air

Sky-trains may be bringing fresh milk to Mansfield daily from as far as 1,000 miles away before long, Howard Eisaman, federal milk market administrator in Cleveland predicted yesterday afternoon in a talk before north central Ohio dairymen at the First Methodist church.

Pointing out that the security in local milk markets is gone, Eisaman said sky-trains may someday release glider cars to supply cities in daily trips across the nation.

Fresh milk is already being hauled great distances daily from big-producing areas to supply cities in sections where milk is scarce, Eisaman said.

Eisaman and J. W. Hartsock, manager of the Milk Producers Federation of Cleveland, addressed a joint meeting of the North-central Ohio Co-op Dairy Sales association and the Richland County Dairy Service unit.

Both men pointed out that the federal milk market stabilization program has no control over consumer prices and that the federal administrator does not dictate what the producer shall be paid, but rather interprets what he will receive per hundredweight for fluid milk according to the established program.

In arriving at the producers' price, the administrator, with the assistance of numerous inspecting auditors, takes into consideration the price obtained from milk utilized in dairy plants and as butter and in cheese, Hartsock said. In Cleveland the attempt has been made to maintain the price paid the producer for milk sold in bottles approximately $1 above that utilized in any of the milk manufacturing processes.

Earlier in the day the Dairy Co-op association re-elected David Culler jr., Lucas, and Howard Snow, Fredericktown, to the board of directors. Members also elected H. H. Wolf, Shelby, as a new director.

During the afternoon session members of the Richland County Dairy Service Unit elected four members to their board of directors. They were Oliver Rinehart, Springfield township; Max McFarland, Washington township; A. L. Lockhart, Lexington; and Stanley Huston of Cass township.

Dinner was served to members of the Dairy Co-op by the women of the First Methodist church. Music was provided by Smart's Studio.

Book of Gallico Stories Due at City Library Monday

Paul Gallico's CONFESSIONS OF A STORY WRITER, a collection of 24 of his best stories and novelettes, will be featured among the works of fiction to be released Monday at the Mansfield Public library.

The volume includes Gallico's famous SNOW GOOSE. There are also some 40,000 words of comment by the author which give a fascinating and completely uninhibited picture of the inside of writing from the time the stories are conceived, prepared, and written until they are published.

A book for sportsmen interested in shooting and in dogs is FUR AND FEATHERS, written by Lawrence Smith. These stories about game dogs describe the characters and characteristics of various breeds of dogs used in hunting. Lawrence Smith is considered an authority on guns and shooting over dogs.

THE THRESHER, by Herbert Krause, is the story of Johnny Schwartz of Minnesota and his life-long and single-handed battle against the contempt of his fellow farmers and the narrowness of their religion. It also tells of how, as he grows older, his growing passion for power drives him and slowly forces the humanity out of him. Though Johnny is in the forefront of the story, not far behind is a whole community of wheat farmers with their common resistance to outsiders and their constant struggle with the land. It is a universal drama of man in conflict with a changing world.

TALES OF THE SOUTH PACIFIC, by James Michener, is a collection set against the background of the South Pacific. They are told by a young naval officer whose duties on an admiral's staff take him up and down the islands. Because Michener was there, he is able to reproduce the mood and atmosphere of the early, crucial days of the Pacific war. Because he has a lively imagination and inventive power, he has turned this material into stories that are eagerly read because they dramatize the greatest adventure of our generation.

Other fiction: WHITE DRESS, Eberhart; YELLOW LEAF, Friedlander; WHERE TWO WAYS MET, Lutz; CINNAMON MURDER, Crane.

THE STRANGE ALLIANCE, by John Deane, is a first-hand report of hitherto secret happenings in Moscow from 1943-45 which throws light on the great enigma of modern times. Except for our war-time ambassador, no American was as close as General Deane to those events in Moscow which shaped our present world. Here is vital commentation on the problem of Soviet-American relations.

THE TENNESSEE, by Donald Davidson, covers the history of a river whose whole story has never been told. Here is the story of the Charleston traders who opened the wilderness, travelers over the Natchez Trace, mistreated Cherokees and finally the Tennessee's great part in the Civil War story.

YOU—TRIUMPHANT, by Eugene Benge, is a concrete guide for ordinary people on all the phases of personal living which contribute to the mystery of self and security in one's social and economic setting. All phases of psychological knowledge which help toward an understanding of human nature, discovering vocational interests, handling human relations and seeking personal success and contentment are here set forth.

Other non-fiction includes: SCIENTIFIC INSTRUMENTS, Cooper; STREET IN BRONZEVILLE, Brooks; ANTHOLOGY OF OHIO VERSE, O. Department of Education; PEOPLE LOOK AT RADIO, Field; ENGLISH GRAMMAR SIMPLIFIED, Fernald; IT HAPPENED IN TAOS, Reed; AMERICAN ADVERTISING AGENCIES, Hart; New World, Lorant; JANES ALL THE WORLD'S AIRCRAFT.

FRENCH TAKE TOWN

SURPLUS BRINGS 26 CENTS ON $1

WASHINGTON — UP — Secretary of State Marshall told congress Thursday afternoon the government is getting back about 26 cents on each dollar investment in its disposal of surplus property overseas.

He reported that as of Dec 31 the United States had disposed of foreign surplus property, originally valued at $[illegible] for almost $1,[illegible].

Of the total the state department's office of foreign liquidation has sold or disposed of $1,[illegible], while the remainder—$[illegible]—was accounted for in direct or scrap sales by the army and navy.

"The sale of our overseas surplus property to war-ravaged countries," Marshall said, "has been a major factor in their rehabilitation and has contributed to the economic recovery prerequisite to the inauguration of lasting peace.

"The use abroad of these products of American industry and agriculture will do much to foster postwar trade and the economic stability of the world."

Government Workers Prepare For Mass Walkout Despite Ban By U. S. General

BULLETIN

TOKYO — (UP) — Japanese labor leaders agreed today to call off the threatened strike of 2,600,000 government workers scheduled for midnight after first defying Gen. Douglas MacArthur's blunt order not to walk out.

TOKYO —(INS)— General MacArthur officially banned today a general strike planned by two and one-half million Japaneses government workers, but labor leaders announced their intention of going through with the mass walkout.

In a statement released to the press and broadcast over the Japanese national radio network, MacArthur said he would not permit the general strike.

The strike committee, however, planned to start the walkout at midnight tonight as a protest against the Yoshida government.

Strike leaders declared that release of the ban through the press and radio did not constitute a "written directive" They demanded the order in writing before they would cancel the walkout.

Japanese national police were mobilized to stand by to thwart the strike

10 Hours To Go.

MacArthur's order was issued a scant 10 hours before the mass walkout was to get underway. The strike would paralyze railways, telegraphic communications, electric power plants and other vital utilities which the government operates.

Before MacArthur stepped in with his directive, labor leaders said they were under "pressure" from occupation officials to call off the proposed strike.

The labor leaders said at that time that the strike would go on unless MacArthur issued an official directive. The ban was announced shortly thereafter

The government workers are not only seeking removal of the conservative cabinet of Shigeru Yoshida but also want wage ceilings lifted

Yoshida reshuffled his cabinet before the strike deadline but government workers expressed dissatisfaction with the move Seven cabinet members were replaced but most of them were still strictly conservative in political leanings.

RIVER STEAMER TO FACE OPEN SEA ON TRIP FROM CALIFORNIA TO OHIO

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Delta Queen, the Queen Line's new packet steamer, will be the fastest, largest and finest overnight passenger boat on the Ohio-Mississippi rivers, says Capt. Tom Greene, president and general manager.

It will be a year or so before river folks get a look at her, Cap'n Tom hastened to add as he announced purchase of the boat from the maritime commission in San Francisco, then triumphantly reported:

"She will write a saga of the seas and the river before she goes into passenger service between Cincinnati and New Orleans"

To get here, he said, the Delta Queen will make a 7,500-mile voyage from San Francisco, through open sea down the California coast, through the Panama Canal, across the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico to New Orleans, then up the Mississippi and Ohio rivers to Cincinnati.

Greene said he dreamed of the Delta Queen making the entire trip under her own power but "the government demurred," so she will be towed through ocean and gulf waters by a tugboat at the end of a thousand feet of steel cable. Even at that, it will be a trip "no river boat has ever taken before," he added.

The new steamer is not expected to complete her voyage before mid-summer at the earliest and then, Greene predicted, it will take another year to recondition her.

The Delta Queen is 285 feet long, 58 feet across the beam, weighs 1 800 tons and when completely renovated will have facilities for 300 overnight passengers, or nearly double the capacity of the line's famous Gordon C. Greene.

The Delta Queen was built in Scotland in 1930 at a cost of $875,000 for the California Transportation company, dismantled and shipped to the United States for service on the Sacramento river. With outbreak of the war, the navy took her over for harbor operations in San Francisco bay and just recently declared her surplus

PAGE SIX MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 31, 1947

The medical profession has greatly lengthened the life span—except for reckless drivers and their victims.

It sometimes seems that a place like the state of Georgia is one of the sort that might prefer to have an "iron curtain" around it.

There's still talk about revising the calendar—but what is really needed is one that would make a year last longer. Tomorrow will be the first of February—can you imagine that!

Taxpayers Must Supply the Money

REQUEST for another pay increase by city employes, coupled with expressions of dissatisfaction by some of Mansfield's public school teachers over recent salary increases made possible by approval of the 2-mill tax levy last November, poses the question of how a sufficient amount of money can be raised, by taxation, to meet what must be regarded as the reasonable compensation for public employes.

What must be taken into account, of course, is that public funds—created by some form of taxation—are the only source of money from which to pay salaries and wages to public employes . . . schools, cities, counties, states, and the federal government.

It now seems quite obvious that income provided by present taxation is already being stretched to the approximate limit in meeting municipal and public school operating costs, with salaries and wages as chief items.

Recent discussion has turned to the inadequacy of the service-safety director's salary, and the same applies to the office of mayor, with many contending that the mayor's salary should be $6,000 or $7,000 a year in a city of Mansfield's importance.

Tax deductions from base pay, coupled with present high living costs, undoubtedly argue strongly for pay increases, but with the city's budget now the highest in history, and with support of the public school system already taking a large percentage of incoming taxes, a realistic attitude on the part of officials will be to find ways to increase revenues before incurring further obligations.

A safe assumption is that no capable, efficient, industrious and dependable city employe or public school teacher is getting as much pay as his or her services may be regarded as reasonably worth—based on educational requirements and present living costs—so it may be advisable to have a re-survey of the whole set-up, followed by announcement to the public of just what tax increases will be needed to meet the situation.

State's Liquor Handling To Be Aired

DECLARED purpose of Ohio's state liquor monopoly, as established in 1934, following repeal of the federal prohibition amendment, was to assure strong control over liquor outlets, to encourage moderation, to assure the high character of all licensees, and to guard against a return of the "evils of the old-time saloon."

Outcome of this commendable intent, as it has been developing through the intervening twelve years, is now being aired through revelation of the chicanery that has been covertly practiced in issuance of various types of licenses, the flooding of communities with liquor sales places under the guise of "private clubs," the unlimited beer-dispensing places in residential sections of cities, and the extremes to which night club operators are permitted to go in the matter of providing questionable "entertainment."

For perhaps the first time since the state of Ohio has assumed the role of chief bartender, the governor, the attorney general and the state senate appear to be co-operating in an effort to probe deeply into the badly muddled liquor business, with at least a possibility that public pressure will be sufficient to offset the counter pressure of selfish interests which will seek to prevent any changes being made in the present loose system of so-called "liquor control."

In addition to the investigation which Governor Herbert has asked Attorney General Jenkins to make, touching on issuance of permits during the closing days of the Lausche administration, the state senate almost unanimously decided to make an investigation of its own. This senate probe is designed to delve into all matters pertaining to the liquor department, with a view to "purging the state of the odium" that attaches to "frequent references to an alleged system of collections and charges for influence in state purchases and the awarding of permits."

Just what will come of it all cannot yet be foreseen, but recognition of a need for investigation may at least slightly encourage hope that some more effective regulatory system will be evolved than the highly vulnerable one which has fallen far short of accomplishing its intent.

Observations At the Century Post

JOHN DONALDSON of Chicago, who celebrates his 10[illegible] birthday this month, is [illegible] centenarians to hand out a little advice [illegible] to the [illegible].

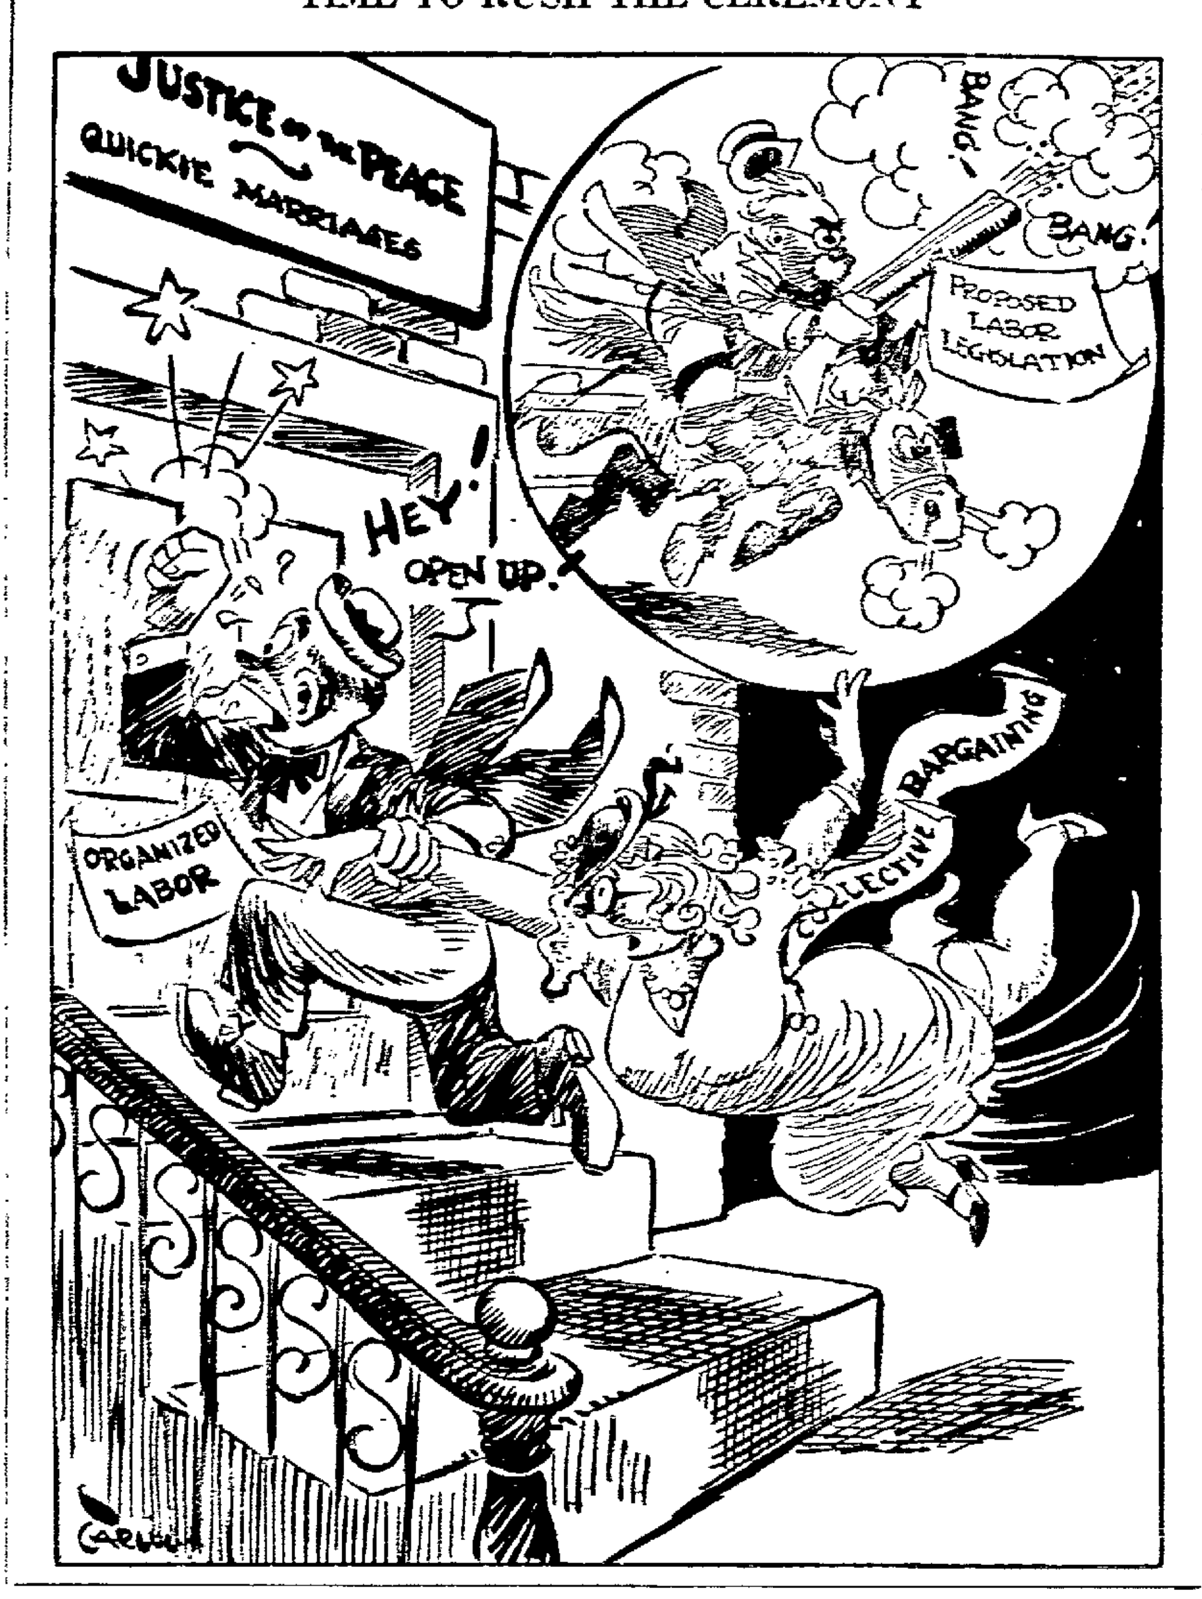
He says he owes his great age to these things: he has never cared for whisky or tobacco, has kept alert mentally, had a Scotch father and an Irish mother, and has been active [illegible] since he was 75, an age at which most people feel justified in retiring.

An impartial observer might conclude that while healthy and vigorous ancestors may have something to do with it, their nationality is not important; that moderation in living very likely leads to length of life, and that most important of all is the habit of mental alertness and the wish to be active and useful. A well-furnished mind makes the passage of time seem interesting and fruitful instead of a cause for decay.

It now appears that Moree R[illegible] [illegible] character actor, isn't getting along well with his [illegible] indicating that he is even more juvenile than might be expected—or, as one paragrapher explains it, "boys will be boys."

Word comes that artists' models in the big cities are unionizing—which is likely to prove interesting when the question of seniority arises.

TIME TO RUSH THE CEREMONY



Truman Still Refuses To Admit Breakdown of Housing Program

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—President Truman still doesn't seem to realize that the real heart was taken out of the veterans housing program when he pushed Wilson Wyatt to the sidelines. In fact he became quite provoked at American Veterans Committee chairman Charles Bolte last week when the question of housing came up.

Truman had asked the AVC leader what veterans are currently talking about and got the answer that the veterans were disillusioned, particularly about the housing program, with 4,000,000 veterans living doubled up because of the housing shortage. Bolte added they are pretty disillusioned about the entire breakdown. Angrily, Truman interrupted.

"It hasn't broken down," he said. "It's not fair to say that it has. We have to carry it out in a free market. I did everything I could to keep prices down. It wasn't I who raised the prices. It was the congress."

Later in the discussion Truman gave his visitors a clue that he might not want to remain in the White House after 1948.

"I have only two big jobs," he said. "The first is to keep the world peaceful, the second is to get the productive machinery of this country running smoothly."

Will TVA Light Brooklyn?

Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington made a startling prediction to President Truman during an off-the-record White House conference last week when he indicated that electric power from the Tennessee Valley might be used in Washington, Philadelphia or New York.

Magnuson, who urges more government power projects, especially in the Northwest, told Truman that electric energy from these projects soon could be distributed all over the country.

"The ability to transmit hydroelectric power scientifically and cheaply at great distances is fast becoming a reality," said the Washington senator. "It's a question of progress that has to be met and we should begin laying the groundwork now for our battles in congress," he added.

Chief reason for the limiting of power distribution by sections, such as the Tennessee Valley, Magnuson explained, was the cost factor. At present, the construction of booster stations to transmit power from a project like TVA is expensive and makes the cost of long-range transmission prohibitive.

"However, we are in a position where we can lick this problem through scientific improvements in the booster system," Magnuson continued. "It won't be very long until we are able to distribute power over great distances at relatively cheap rates to consumers.

"In other words, hydroelectric power is fast growing out of its sectional pants and we've got to begin thinking of legislating some national trousers for it."

"You don't have to sell me on that," replied Truman. "I am aware that this question of power distribution is one of the most vital problems we have got to face. It would only be false economy for us to overlook the potentialities of our hydroelectric resources.

"We have only begun to harness them for the good of the whole country," the president added.

In February the Kaiser-Frazer Auto company will show its first profit since it started making cars . . . The American embassy in Madrid reports that General Franco ordered a national holiday to honor the arrival of the new Argentine ambassador. Peron's answer was to send a new ambassador to Franco. In other words from Colonel Peron to the United Nations, one kick in the teeth, COD.

Most important congressional battle of the next two years will be between those who want the big companies to get bigger and those who favor old-fashioned American competition since the federal courts have been upholding the anti-trust laws. Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois has introduced a bill to exempt news-gathering agencies like the Associated Press from the anti-trust laws, while Senator Reed of Kansas would exempt the railroads. Ready to fight for small business and a strong anti-trust program are Republican Senators Aiken of Vermont, Tobey of New Hampshire, Flanders of Vermont, Langer of North Dakota and Morse of Oregon; also Democratic Senators Murray of Montana, Kilgore of West Virginia, Pepper of Florida and Taylor of Idaho.

Home-Town Loafer Holds $10,000 Job.

WASHINGTON—It's funny, the stories you sometimes hear, just drifting around out on Capitol Hill listening to the conversations.

In the congressman's office, there were a couple of guys from out of town. Wandering in their state a few months ago, I'd met them and spent some time with them. After we'd said hello, one of them took me to one side.

"Where you going from here?" he asked.

"Over to the other side of the hill."

"Wait a little while. We want to talk to you first."

Wondering what was coming, I waited. Outside, it wasn't long before they got to the point.

"How much money does what's-his-name in there make?" they wanted to know, indicating the congressman's executive assistant.

I told them that as I understood it, the job paid somewhere in the neighborhood of $10,000 a year, all things considered.

"What did I tell you?" said one of them. The other one whistled. Then they both laughed uproariously for a moment.

"Lemme tell you about that guy," the first one finally said. "If there's a mealy punk in our town he's it. Got kicked outa high school a time or two, then just loafed around town after that. You could always find him in the poolhall or bar most any day.

"Far as I know, he never had a job for more than a couple or three months in his life. Don't know whether he could hold one if he tried—and he never tried. Wouldn't work."

"Ten thousand dollars!" exploded the other one. "Why that jerk never made no thousand dollars any year he lived!"

"That's right," the first one grinned. For a moment we walked along in silence. Then I suggested that perhaps the guy had been a pretty good worker for the congressman's party, back home.

They shook their heads in emphatic unison.

"Naw," the spokesman said. "He couldn't get the congressman a dozen votes right in his own neighborhood. All he ever did was sort of hang around during campaign and election time, and run errands for them. Sometimes he drove one of the campaign cars, or something like that. Naw, he's just a punk."

"As a matter of fact," said the other one, "as soon as it gets out back home that he's got a $10,000 government job, the congressman is going to start getting squawks by the basketful!"

I haven't been back into the congressman's office since then, but something tells me he's going to have a new assistant.

Between the house office building and the Capitol building, you can walk through the subway if it's inclement weather outside. Between the Capitol building and the senate office building, you can walk through another subway or, if you wish, ride in one of the two little trolleys which shuttle back and forth.

A couple of new congressmen were being taken on the rounds of Capitol Hill by one of their secretaries who was more or less a veteran out there.

Waiting for the subway car there they seemed engaged in a serious argument. One was waving his arms and gesturing.

You never can tell when such an argument may give you a lead into some new legislation being planned so I moved over closer to listen. After all, it might have something to do with labor or the atom bomb.

"Aw, I don't think it matters so much," the quiet one was saying. "It isn't very important, anyway."

"The heck it isn't!" snorted the explosive one. "I tell you, it looks to me like the senators get everything around here. Their offices are bigger and better. They have everything a little nicer than we do—and now, on top of everything, they get a ride back and forth between their office and the Capitol and we have to walk. I tell you, I'm going to see if I can't get us some sort of a subway trolley!"

Well, I guess that would be new legislation, all right.

I agree with your editorial of Sunday, Jan. 26, "Right to Teach Religion Upheld."

The omission of religious education in our schools is adding to the increased crime wave among the children of today.

There are millions of children in our country who have never been to Sunday school who know nothing about the Bible with its way to salvation and its glorious promises. Through the schools, these children could receive this most important part of their education.

The teaching of the Bible was the factor upon which our country was founded. The greatest leaders have been devout men and faithful students of the Bible. No other country has grown so rapidly in power and been so blessed as ours.

Words of the Wise

The real democratic American idea is, not that every man shall be on a level with every other, but that every one shall have liberty, without hindrance, to be what God made him.—H. W. Beecher.

Thomas L. Stokes

"Collective Bargaining" Requires Study.

WASHINGTON — Sometimes what a witness says before a congressional committee that fails to make headlines is just as much news in contributing to the understanding of a basic problem as what makes the headlines.

This was true, for example, of some things Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach said when he appeared before the senate labor and welfare committee which is exploring the whole subject preparatory to writing labor legislation.

Some were obvious, and often overlooked. But they are most important for they reveal a sort of postwar psychosis of our people that has had a lot to do with our labor troubles, and we had plenty last year.

The secretary conceded frankly at the outset that it was our worst year on that score. It was a typical year after a great war, with short tempers, bad manners and general cantankerousness growing from frustrations.

The whole nation was a bit sick.

Workers came out of the war tired from the long work week and the suspense, and this is not emphasized enough. They faced a lower living standard because of the cessation of overtime pay and because of higher prices.

Many lost their jobs when war plants shut and were afraid they wouldn't be able to get others. There was general restlessness. Wage controls were dropped, and that was their opportunity and that of their leaders.

Management, faced with demands for higher wages, got worried about price increases and the effect on their business. Contributing to the uneasiness and uncertainty of labor was the fact pointed out by the secretary that "certain small segments of management felt that the opportunity had arrived in which they could destroy the effectiveness of labor unions."

Then, too, many contracts written during the war by the government, he pointed out, "retained provisions which were distasteful to employers and they felt it was necessary for them to eliminate such provisions in their first bargaining sessions after the war."

It was, then, in a spirit rather devoid of our vaunted American give-and-take that management and union leaders sat down to bargain. Then they discovered, suddenly, that they had forgotten how to bargain collectively. During the war, they had been able to run to boards here in Washington with their grievances, and patterns were fixed that did not require the old collective-bargaining knack. Uncle Sam fixed it. Now they were on their own.

The result was more strikes and longer strikes.

There is another thing, too, that made it harder which is overlooked. In 1941 there were 9,300,000 union members. This has increased now to 14,500,000. That means many new unions and new union members without collective bargaining experience.

"Because of the increase in union membership during the war and because of changes in union and business management, many representatives of both groups undertook free collective bargaining for the first time in the last year," the secretary said.

Management and labor have had to "relearn the free collective-bargaining process." They are relearning it, the secretary said, and so successfully, he thinks, that the number of work stoppages this year will be far less than last year. As 1947 began, work stoppages were at the lowest since VJ-day.

It's not necessary to be Pollyannish about all this to be highly encouraged by it. Certainly it creates a more favorable atmosphere in congress for writing labor legislation than existed during the campaign and immediately after the election.

British Empire System Being Abandoned.

WASHINGTON — "Man bites dog" is still pretty much the prevailing rule of thumb for determining news values. A good fight is always Page 1 but a peaceful settlement is likely to be buried in the back of the paper.

It is important to remember this in connection with what is happening to the British empire. The British Labor government has just reached an agreement which will make Burma a free nation within a short time.

When that news was carried at all, it was carried in small type on the inside pages. But if Britain had been preparing to send an expedition to hold Burma by force, as France has been doing in French Indo-China, we would have had banner headlines.

This playing-down of the news may help to explain why those of the Henry Wallace school go on talking about imperialism, just as though nothing had happened since the time of Rudyard Kipling and "the white man's burden." Actually we are witnessing a revolution of the most far-reaching consequences.

This revolution had its beginning at least 50 years ago, shortly after Britain reached the peak of her position as empire-builder and order-keeper. The trend has been consistently the other way ever since. Now we are witnessing the whirlwind finish of that revolution in all its awesome meaning. Great Britain is moving out of India, Burma, Egypt, the cornerstones of the empire of old.

But the critic who still thinks in terms of Kipling says, "Well, why don't they get out right away? Why are they still there?" There are several potent answers to that question.

To begin with, you can't simply pull out after 200 years as you would give up a hotel room. There are vastly complicated questions to settle before the final moving day.

Second, habit is very strong, particularly the habit of rule as it has been engrained in the British civil service in the empire. These civil servants do not like to surrender authority. They may even resist the change, although at the seat of government in London it is clearly recognized as inevitable.

In the left wing of the Labor party they favor pushing this process much faster, and for a very practical reason. Labor members of parliament such as R. H. S. Crossman and Michael Foot say that Britain can no longer afford to police the empire and incidentally, the rest of the world. London can no longer afford it either in money or in men.

At the end of 1946, Great Britain had approximately 1,500,000 men in the armed forces and the auxiliary services, including the royal navy. The Crossman-Foot wing of the Labor party believes that this figure must be reduced to not more than 800,000 or 900,000. The British are faced with a desperate shortage of men. They are looking in every direction to try to make up a deficit of at least a half million workers.

On the money side, the short-term outlook is almost as grim. With a goal of raising exports 75 per cent above the pre-war level, at the beginning of 1947 the increase was only about 10 per cent.

It is time to stop talking about "imperialism" as though Gunga Din were still carrying gin slings to the complacent British raj. While the shreds of that old order cling on, the empire system is actually a part of history.

It is time to start thinking of what the nature of the world will be as the order-keeping forces of Great Britain are withdrawn. Above all, it is time to think of our responsibility in this new world.

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

"SOMEP'N WE'VE ET?"

"Like as not it's somep'n you et," was the stock phrase used by an old aunt of mine, whenever we boys had any sickness. And she would dose us with teas the very odor of which had magic results.

There is something staggering about the idea that whole nations can be unfit because they are born and grown up on foods that only partially satisfy them. If more than half the illnesses of humankind are due to malnutrition, what chance have doctors? At best all they can do is to alleviate and make easier the inevitable.

We know that children are sometimes born with soft bones—that the food eaten by a pregnant woman as well as her own health and vitality helps determine the inheritance of her baby. Studies of certain native Indian tribes over many years, reveal that they knew nothing about fatigue or intestinal disturbances—or cancer! These peoples whose health and vitality are so remarkable, live on food grown and gathered in primitive fashion, but careful study reveals that there is a wider variety of elements represented in it than is found in the diet of many more highly civilized and modernized parts of the world.

It seems reasonable that men would be better off with just enough of the right kind of food than with too much of foods lacking in vital elements. It seems reasonable that even slight traces of certain minerals might directly affect the digestibility of a man's whole diet. Chemistry is a science . . . and body chemistry directly affects health.

Diseases of LACK are due to ignorance for the earth is just as full of goodness as it ever was . . . and what has washed away from the topsoil must be found in the sea or in the air . . . nothing is really ever lost, just changed in form.

Studies along these lines are of most vital importance to all of us. Sir Albert Howard, the great English agriculturist, has a new book soon to come out, "Soil and Health." It will tell, in plain words, what hopeful progress has been made along these lines. Howard has been working on such research for 47 years. His earlier book, "An Agricultural Testament," was mentioned in this column some time ago. Soil and Health is his first contribution to be published in America. It will start some hot arguments.

ROYAL FAMILY BEGINS TOUR

British King's Party Leaves Today on First Stage of South African Trip.

LONDON —(INS)— King George and Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, leave London's Waterloo Station today for Portsmouth on the first stage of their trip to South Africa.

Severe wintry weather and a heavy fall of snow blanketed London's grimy buildings at the departure of the royal party. It forced cancellation of the planned state parade, and relieved Londoners of the duty of standing in freezing cold ,to wave "bon voyage" to their king and queen.

However, some crowds were expected to gather despite the slush and bitter winds to bid farewell to the royal party.

First Trip of Kind.

Besides it being the first time the young princesses ever have gone outside Britain, the journey has taken an added interest for the British people. This stems from the general belief that the engagement of Princess Elizabeth to Prince Philip of Greece may be announced when the royal family returns to England in May.

The heiress to the throne will celebrate her 21st birthday while the royal party is in Capetown on April 21, a few days before the departure for England.

The king's brother and sister, the Duke of Gloucester and the Princess Royal, will travel with the royal party to Portsmouth.

The royal family embarks in the battleship Vanguard as soon as they arrive in Portsmouth this evening, and will sail tomorrow morning.

The Duke of Gloucester, recently returned from being Gover-General of Australia, will carry out the king's duties during his absence, assisted by counsellors of state who will include the Princess Royal.

Extra clothing coupons have been granted to the queen and the two princesses by special order of the cabinet in order that they will have a suitable wardrobe for the tour. The king has personally supervised a good supply of wines and cigars for entertaining visitors aboard the Vanguard.

CITY PRAISED BY NAVY MAN

The navy's compliments to Mansfield for its participation in Naval Reserve week were given to members and guests of the Mansfield Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting yesterday.

Cmdr. W. G. Collar, USN, Assistant head of field serice for the Commandant, Ninth Naval district, conveyed the navy's gratitude in a talk before the club in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Cmdr. Collar revealed that one-third of the navy personnel during World War II came from the Ninth Naval district which includes Ohio. This district has also been allotted one-third of the naval post-war reserve quota.

Of 675 organized reserve divisions planned, 299 will be in the Ninth Naval district. The number per city is based on the population of the city and that city's naval population. Mansfield has been allotted the 195th Organized Reserve division.

Reserve training calls for a program that will enable diisions to man the ships within 10 days if called to duty. Emphasis will be on technical training with the old close-order drill kept to a minimum.

Edward W. Dann was program chairman for the day. Cmdr. Collar appeared as one of a series of speakers appearing before Mansfield civic clubs during this week.

Barclay On Bridge

SOME HANDS are not good enough for a sacrifice bid at the range of four, but justify a bid at the level of six or seven. That apparent paradox is logical because of a very simple fact. If the opponents have bid to only a game, the loss through the sacrifice might cost more points than the adverse game. But if they have bid a slam—or have exchanged information that make a slam contract by them a practical certainty—then so much is at stake that heavy punishment of your sacrifice would cost you less than you already stand to lose.

Notice that South did not consider he had enough to bid 1-Diamond over 1-Club, nor yet enough playing tricks to try a sacrifice at 4-Diamonds over 3-No Trumps. Yet he considered he had enough to try 6-Diamonds after having passed at the levels of one and four. It was entirely because he felt—after East's 5-Hearts, showing two aces in response to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps — that the opponents were headed for a slam bid, either small or grand, as they were.

A small slam contract would have given the opponents around 1,000 points and a grand slam around fifty per cent more than that. South reckoned that a few dregs in his partner's hand might limit his losses to about five down for a score of 900 or perhaps only four down for 700.

As it developed, the opponents could have scored a grand slam in either No Trumps or clubs. South in his 5-Diamonds doubled lost one trick in spades, three in hearts, one in diamonds and one in clubs, a total of six, so was down five for a score of 900. This made quite a saving against what could have been lost if he had not bid.

MISS BETTIE COLE

Open church will be observed Saturday, Feb. 22, at 3:30 o'clock, when nuptial vows are exchanged by Miss Bettie Maxine Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cole of Crestline, and James H. Hugo, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hugo, 151 West Second street.

The St. John's Lutheran church in Leesville will be the scene of the wedding to be performed by Rev. Austin Shell. Miss Cole, a nurse at Mansfield General hospital, has chosen her sister, Mrs. Russell McKean of Shelby, as her matron of honor.

The bride-elect was graduated from Leesville high school and attended Toledo university. She graduated from the Mansfield General School of Nursing.

Mr. Hugo is a graduate of the Mansfield Senior high school and the Pennsylvania State college, where he was affiliated with the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is employed at the Mooch Electric Supply company in Canton.

Friends of Miss Cole were entertained recently at her home in Leesville at which time she announced her approaching marriage.

Thesaurian Club Given Program By Miss Krause

Miss Louise Krause presented the program at the meeting of the Thesaurian club Thursday evening with Mrs. James Rice as hostess. The group met at the home of Mrs. E. K. Bacon, 71 Blymyer avenue, with 12 members and one guest, Mrs. John Bissman, present.

"How Music Fares in our Times" was the subject of Miss Krause's comprehensive paper. She stated that no great music had been written during the past war but a greater audience had received the higher type of music which tended toward a better appreciation and the forming of musical organizations.

She told of leading American musicians and musical groups, stating "the music of our country is now on a par with any foreign country and our composers have much to contribute to other lands." She closed the program with several piano selections.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 13 at the home of Mrs. Robert Finical, Vennum avenue, for a Valentine party. Miss Margaret Hall and Miss Betty Genger will be the associates.

Housewives Boost Morale By Neatness

By MME QUI VIVE

Lucky is the woman who is doing the kind of work she wants to do. She will keep within finger touch of her youth, because her life is an adventure. She gets ahead, she makes progress, she is alert to what is going on. The home-body who hates housework regards her with envy, thinks of her as a free agent. She is taking the wrong attitude. Making an attractive home, one that has an atmosphere of happiness and contentment, is no mean attainment. Hours may be long and wages small, but they mean nothing if love is present. Some of those beauteous career girls who go home each night to a lonely one room apartment might possibly envy her.

There are women who are born homemakers. They take pride in serving delicious meals, keeping everything shining bright, taking fastidious care of the kids, seeing that the old man is made comfortable. They plan their work carefully. Each day has its special job. Even the sink full of dirty dishes does not dismay them. They stack the dishes neatly, throw in the soap flakes and say to themselves, "We have to eat. If we eat, we have dishes to wash. After all, I rather like sloshing around in soapy water. It is a satisfaction when all the clean dishes are on the table, ready to be put away. Often I get through them in 15 minutes."

The capable housewife keeps herself looking neat and pretty to boost morale. She can clean the basement without getting a speck of dirt on herself. First thing in the morning she arranges her hair. She knows that to look scubby is to feel scrubby.

Now we will consider the woman whose feelings about domestic life are quite different. Dishes in the sink get her down. That is because she waits until the last minute to wash them. Every time she glances at them they rebuke her. She frowns, assumes the expression of a martyr. Families must have homes, homes must be taken care of. Why doesn't she think of that? Also that homemaking is the noblest job of all? Many a woman who is making her own way in the world would gladly exchange places with her—scrubbing, dishwashing and all.

To women who grumble and complain, we would suggest that they stop hitching their wagons to stars and hitch them to the baby carriage. Get rid of the dishwashing complex. Start the day with interest and energy; the various duties will soon be out of the way. After all, it isn't work that tires one and torments one, it is one's thoughts about it. Find time every day for a little pleasant reading. Prowl around the public library; you'll find many books to amuse you, to strengthen you, to instruct you.

Play with the kids. Keep close to their interests. They are riches beyond gold and rubies, and don't ever forget it.

WILLING WORKERS.

Members of the Willing Workers of the Little Washington church met for an all day session Thursday at the church. Quilting occupied the afternoon. Eight were in attendance. The next meeting will be held Feb. 6.

Memos . . From the Society Desk

MRS. RAGNI E. VON WRIGHT, Helsingfors, Finland, sent the following letter to Mrs. Charles Brown sr. and the Charity club in reference to the seven boxes of clothing the organization collected and shipped to Finland in December:

"Through by daughter, Mrs. Frankenhauser, I have received the news that you have been kind enough to arrange a collection for Finland in Mansfield. So far I have received five of the seven packages she has mentioned in her letter, but I expect the remaining two to turn up soon.

"The packages have contained very good and useful things both for babies, children, women and men and I want to express my heartiest thanks for your great kindness. Finland has always been a poor and cold country, but after our two unhappy wars when great parts of the country have been devastated it is poorer than ever and people are suffering severely.

"It has given me great pleasure and deep satisfaction to distribute the clothes to the people, who badly needed them, and I hope I have followed the instructions given to my daughter. At least I have tried my very best to do it. The recipients have very much appreciated your gifts and have asked me to convey their very best thanks to you and everybody who has contributed to the wonderful collection.

"May God bless you and your kindhearted friends!

"Yours very sincerely,
"Ragni E. von Wright"

Broadway Bulletin Board—The day Laraine Day married Leo Durocher David Street hung a slave bracelet on Edna Ryan. Edna is the blond beauty who until recently was rumored to be Lippy's secret bride. . . . The whole W. C. Fields family will contest the comedian's will ad infinitum in an effort to eliminate his brunette protegee as a major recipient of the funds An attorney representing the family will offer her a settlement. . . . Recent British visitors to N. Y. are giving odds that Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of Greece will never marry. They predict the romance will be "quietly forgotten." . . . One of Hollywood's "ideal" marriages—a star and a director—is on the verge of a nervous breakup. The principals have been held together in recent months only by the fact that they both listen to the chants of the same psychiatrist.

Ruth Etting, on the comeback trail, has turned down a $5,000-a-week offer to work in a Broadway night club. . . . Students from Emery College's Alpha Tau Omega fraternity have sent Joseph Lewis a polite but firm note challenging him to a duel for claiming in his current book that Thomas Paine (and not Southerner Thomas Jefferson) wrote the Declaration of Independence. . . . They'll both appear in John Steinbeck's new play, which will have its premiere in Dublin. . . . Airline executives have just one explanation for the depressing number of plane crashes in the past few months. They say it's merely a matter of percentage: there are more planes in use now than ever before, therefore more crashes. . . .

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 1.

A DAY of a sudden and breath-taking turn of events, with all under most auspicious rule for the attainment of not only commonplace and workaday plans and objectives but also more sentimental and spiritual values. These are under excellent prospects of the full fruition of cherished hopes and wishes. Dreams may be bounteously realized. Do not complicate this by erratic impulses.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves plunged into a year of a startling about-face, with new places, contacts, plans and objectives turned into new fields of operation, and of far-reaching and dramatic denouement Change of technique, ways and means, should precipitate much of a constructive nature. Forces and faculties should be keyed to high purpose, with romance and adventure not lacking. Curb rash or emotional behavior.

A child born on this day should be blessed with much versatility, originality, ingenuity, with grace and charm as well. A life of adventure, romance and achievement is indicated.

Topaz is the emblem of friendship and love. For that reason it is frequently used as an engagement stone.

Shelby's Busy Chester Monn To Seek Reelection Next May

By JOHN GRAY
(N-J State Correspondent)

SHELBY—One of Shelby's most energetic city officials is Chester P. Monn, director of finance and public records, who next May will seek his fifth two-year term of office.

CHESTER P. MONN

Monn, who is believed to be the only relief director in Ohio serving without pay, has been reelected without opposition at the last four elections to his post as director of finance and public records.

He was drafted into the city's relief post three years ago without pay after no one could be found who would take the job's headaches for $1,400 a year.

Aside from saving the city more than $3,000 in salary since he accepted the added duties as relief director, Monn has whittled relief expenditure. to one of the lowest points since the city took over the work from the county.

The relief case load averaged 26 persons per month when the youthful-looking executive assumed command of the department in 1943 Within a year he had cut the case load to six persons a month, with corresponding savings of thousands of dollars annually.

In 1942, relief expenses totaled $7,216 Last year the department spent only $1,478.

Official Positions.

A listing of Monn's official positions today reads like a review of a man's career over a period of many years. He is secretary of the Ohio Relief Directors' association, treasurer of the Shelby Better Business club; clerk of city council; registrar of vital statistics; clerk of the Seltzer park board; a member of the street fair board, and director of finance, relief and public records.

Monn attributes most of his success as relief director to "the good times we're having" But his fellow workers also credit his keen sense of economy and his knowledge of human nature.

Every client who comes to the relief office is thoroughly investigated. None ever are turned away when actually in need.

THE LITTLE MATTER OF TAILS

"Don't ask silly questions," snapped Kitty the Catbird, rather sharply.

"I didn't ask a silly question. I asked if I have any cousins with long tails down there in the Land-of-Always-Summer where you usually spend the winter. What is silly about that?" retorted Peter.

"Did you ever hear of a Rabbit with a long tail?" demanded Kitty crossly.

"I never did, and I haven't any idea what a Rabbit would do with a long tail. I think it would be dreadfully in the way. But I never heard of a Porcupine with a long tail until you said that Prickly Porky's cousin down there has a long tail, and that Bobby Coon and Unc' Billy Possum have long-tailed cousins down there. Long tails seem to be the fashion down there, so I just wondered if I may have some cousins with long tails," Peter explained. "I don't see why I shouldn't have," he added.

Kitty the Catbird chuckled. He had recovered his good nature. "You have forgotten one thing, Peter," said he.

"What have I forgotten?" Peter asked.

"You have forgotten that Rabbits don't climb trees," explained Kitty the Catbird.

Peter thought this over for a moment, but he didn't see what difference it made and he said so. "Most folks who don't climb trees don't have long tails, and Mother Nature doesn't give folks things they don't need. Those who spend most of their time in trees, especially in such trees as grow in the Land-of-Always-Summer, do need long tails," said Kitty.

"I don't see why," said Peter.

"Have you ever seen Nimbleheels and Jumping Mouse?" asked Kitty.

"Of course," replied Peter. "And how that fellow can jump! He's asleep now. Do you know that he is the only member of the Mouse family who sleeps all winter just like Jimmy Chuck?"

"It is because he has a long tail that he can make those long jumps," said Kitty.

"I can make long jumps and I have a short tail," said Peter.

Kitty chuckled. "Peter," said he, "if you could jump as far for your size as little Nimbleheels can for his size you could pretty nearly jump over the Old Briar-patch, and what a tail you would need! Have you ever seen a Jumping Mouse who had lost his tail try to jump?"

Peter nodded. "Once," said he.

"What happened?" asked his feathered friend.

"That Mouse turned over and over in the air. When he landed he didn't know which way he was headed and the next jump took him right back near where he had started," replied Peter.

"That was because he had lost his tail," said Kitty. "Folks who have long tails need them. You may be sure of that. Prickly Porky's cousin uses his tail to hang onto branches with when he is climbing about high up in a tree. It is that kind of a tail. So is the tail of Unc' Billy Possum's cousin down there. Handy tails if you ask me. And those fellows know how to use them."

"What have I forgotten?" Peter asked.

"What about that other fellow, Bobby Coon's cousin? Is his the same kind of a tail?" asked Peter.

"You mean Coati Mundi? His tail is furry. The tails of those others are not. They are like the tail of Unc' Billy Possum only longer. You know how that is, bare. Coati's tail must help him when he is climbing and scrambling about up in the treetops after fruit the way Happy Jack Squirrel's tail helps him. Anyway you may be sure it helps him or Mother Nature wouldn't have given it to him. And there are others with long handy tails, Honey Bear the Kinkajou and Howler the Monkey. They are tree folks too," concluded Kitty.

"Never heard of them," said Peter. And of course Peter never had.

Texas Gal Speaks Up

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—I checked with the female reporters. Some said her dress was fuchsia-colored. Others insisted it was shocking pink. Her blouse, they agreed, was chartreuse.

The gleam in her eye (I sought no opinions about that) was electric. For hours she squirmed on a hard-bottomed chair while mere men offered the dullest possible testimony to the senate banking and currency committee about rent control.

The lady in the fancy get-up ignored 'em. She clipped to her nose a pair of eyeglasses with black silk ribbon attached and she studied her notes, written on cards the exact color of her dress. Sen. Charles W. Tobey of N. H. eventually called for her evidence.

"I live on East Lover's lane," she said in a voice that was a little loud, because she was a little nervous. "And I'm just a little country gal from Texas and I don't know whether I can think fast enough . . ."

"Your name, madam," said Sen. Tobey. "And your address."

She said she was Mrs. Frank Morriss. "And East Lovers Lane is in Dallas in the great state of Texas," she added. "My house has three bedrooms and two baths." She said she came to Washington to demand the end of rent control.

Two of her bedrooms she'd like to rent for cash, but she lends one to her cousin and one to a friend for free, because she doesn't want to do business with the OPA. The OPA, even what's left of it, in her opinion, is the next thing to criminal.

"And what can the landlord do about it," she cried.

"He can always vote Republican," observed Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wis.

"Texas did it once, brother, and Texas can do it again," Mrs. Morriss retorted.

* * *

SHE SAID IF RENT controls were removed there'd be plenty of places for veterans to live in Dallas. She said the Texas veterans were behind her.

"These boys want a house with a fence around it," she said. "A place for Molly and the baby."

Mrs. Morriss got her notes mixed with the ribbon on her spectacles. The gallant Sen. Tobey sought to cover her confusion.

"Oh tell me pretty maiden," he asked, quoting from the Floradora song, "Are there any more like you?"

She jumped to her feet, strewing her notes in still further disorder, and curtseyed.

"I thank you sir," she said. "but there are no more. I am an only child."

She blushed. From thereon she denounced the OPA extemporaneously. A magnificent job of denouncing it was, too.

"Now, I'll answer any question," she said, "but I hope there'll be no more like the senator's last one about pretty maiden."

There seemed to be no further questions. Mrs. Morriss pouted her lips.

"Remember the Alamo," urged Sen. Tobey. "You're right," agreed Mrs. Morriss. There were more witnesses, but they wore pants and spouted statistics. No comparison with the lady from East Lovers Lane.

Probes Miss FDR Kin

THE ROOSEVELT BOYS, Elliott and Jimmy, have earned historic importance of a sort by their spectacular adventures in business and finance during their father's long presidency. They were young men of luxurious appetites to whom the ethical restraints which their indulgent father sometimes acknowledged for the political record, were artificial, fastidious and invalid.

The record of the presidency from Washington down to Truman shows no comparable conduct by members of any other president's family in lines of business and promotion that were questionable at best, and in some cases, flagrantly cynical and underhanded. President Grant fell into trouble after he had left office and slaved until his death, sacrificing even his sword to pay debts which he had incurred in innocent association with a swindler. Harding never was accused of taking a dishonest dollar for himself or suffering the presidency to be exploited for the financial profit of any relative.

* * *

ALTHOUGH the Roosevelt administration is now notorious in this respect, although the war investigation committee of the senate has revealed lesser scandals, the only official congressional investigation into any of these activities of members of President Roosevelt's family was a negative and reluctant sitting of the ways and means committee of the house on the subject of Elliott's defaulted loans. The committee, then controlled by the Democrats, did not call a single witness. It took no testimony. It relied entirely on a record presented by the treasury, which conducted an inquiry in a sympathetic atmosphere, and it ruled only on the question whether John Hartford and other leaders had had a right to write off their loans as bad debts. The committee even tried to make the treasury's record unavailable for study by limiting to about a dozen the copies of the report that were released for the press. The report never was printed.

The investigation of this phase of the president's character, and his character and honor certainly were involved, has been conducted entirely by private initiative. The results, although they were obviously incomplete, constitute an indictment of Mr. Roosevelt inasmuch as he obviously knew what his boys and his wife were doing and the enterprises in question plainly flouted his own professed principles and ethics. Mrs. Roosevelt's adventure as a radio broadcaster on the so-called Coffee Program, under auspices which promised the cooperation of the state department, was an episode in this record.

We have been reading lately of an amazing diary kept by Henry Morgenthau, who as secretary of the treasury would seem to have had no time for anything else, so great is the volume of his memoirs. This record should tell us about Jimmy Roosevelt's brief term as president of the National Grain Yeast corporation, of Belleville, N. J., and of Morgenthau's own official activity in the incident. More likely, it won't.

CITY LEADERS TO GET NATHAN WAGE REPORT

Unions Set Up Publicity Plan to Head Wage Request.

Civic, church and industrial leaders of Mansfield will receive the first installment of the Robert Nathan report on price and wage relationship by the middle of next week as the first step in a city-wide publicity program of United Electrical Locals 711, 759 and 758.

The publicity drive is expected to pave the way for union requests for pay increases in at least seven Mansfield industrial plants within the next two months

The program was mapped yesterday by six union leaders serving on a Mansfield UE Committee for Community Action.

"The committee's work is to take to the public actual conditions as they exist on wages and profits in industry and on commodity prices," Joseph Hawkins, president of Local 711, and member of the committee, said today.

"We plan to circulate the Nathan plan, in installments because of its length, to all leaders of the community," he added. "They will be contacted either by mail or through personal approach."

Hawkins added that Nathan, employed by the CIO to make the price and wage survey, said in the report that the average worker in electrical, rubber, steel, and auto industries is $11.90 short per week of making what is called an average living under the present American standards.

During the war, Nathan headed the Economic Research department in Washington, D. C.

Hawkins said no wage increase figure has been set pending negotiations with the following companies here: Wastinghouse, Ohio Brass, Hughes-Keenan, Martin Steel Products, Cleveland Grain Elevator, Ideal Electrical Manufacturing, and Humphryes Manufacturing.

The test wil lbe given at 9 a. m., Feb. 14 at Senior high school. All winners will be announced April 18.

Provisions of the scholarship include full tuition and incidental fees paid for four years to any accredited college in the nation, an allowance of $25 per month during the four years, plus traveling expenses at the rate of three cents a mile for one round trip home each year.

SUNLAMP PRICES REDUCED SHARPLY

A 33⅓ per cent reduction in the list price of the Westinghouse sunlamp, effective tomorrow, was announced today by the Westinghouse lamp division through company officials here.

New price of the lamp is $9.95 as compared with the $15 price in effect since the lamp was introduced after the end of the war. It is being retailed in Mansfield.

Company spokesmen said the lower price was made possible by manufacturing cost reductions achieved through utilizing modern mass production methods and improved manufacturing techniques.

The lamp consists of a 275 watt reflector-type bulb which may be fitted into an electrical light socket.

Meter Collection Drops Off Sharply

Parking meter receipts in January totaled $3,089, Meter Inspector Robert Sneeringer reported today. The total is less than was received in any month during 1946. The collection in January, 1946, was $3,625.81.

Receipts from the city's 419 meters boosted total collections for six years to $258,753.

LEADERS DANCE — Mansfield Girl Scout leaders frolic to an imaginary fiddler's tune as they learn the folk dances of America. Girl Scout Leaders Attend School to Learn Dance Steps

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Mrs. Charles F. Orr, Girl Scout leader of Troop 22, got an idea and more than a score of other leaders are putting it into practice and getting a lot of fun out of it.

The idea called for an instruction class in American folk dances. The dances would be taught to the leaders who, in turn, would instruct their troop members in the rudiments of the Virginia reel, square dance and the minuet.

The idea took hold. When the class was set up, dancing instruction was assured by Miss Margaret Jasinski of the Ethyl Battin Dancing academy. The second class in folk dancing was held Tuesday morning at the YMCA.

* * *

"DANCING COMES under the program fields involving every Girl Scout," Mrs. Orr began. "I felt that by teaching the leaders the dance steps, more girls would benefit directly than if we had a dancing class for the troop members.

"After every class (Tuesdays at 10 a. m.) the leaders are urged to take what they've learned back to their troop and instruct the girls in the steps. Around 100 girls will have earned their folk-dancing badge soon after the leaders' class is finished," the leader continued.

Mrs. Orr is now serving as registrar for sports and games in the Scout program field. She is a member of the new system set up by the Girl Scout council to direct and pass on all badge work done by the troops selecting sports and games for study.

* * *

"WE HOPE to learn seven or eight American folk dances during the course and the leaders will advance just as rapidly as possible," Mrs. Orr continued. "If enough girls profit by this instruction, we hope, ultimately, to have an inter-city carnival among the scout troops."

Leaders who have attended the class are: Mrs. P. J. Mayer, Troop 8; Mrs. Robert Iams and Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Troop 51; Mrs. WM. Wilson, Troop 14; Mrs. C. C. Varner, Troop 37; Mrs. James Keith, Troop 16; Mrs. Roy Stump, Mrs. R. H. Small and Mrs. Wallace Firestone, to be assigned to the Western avenue district; Mrs. John Fisher, Troop 55; Mrs. E. G. Pankow, Troop 40; Mrs. Tom Ford, Troop 19; Mrs. Orr, Mrs. Wayne Baker, Troop 39; Mrs. Philip Lodge, Troop 46; Mrs. Robert Beatty, Troop 40; Mrs. H. F. Plaut, Troop 35; and Mrs. J. Frederick Castor, Troop 50.

Up and Down The Street

REASON TO COMPLAIN—

If they weren't so serious to the complainants, some of the emergency calls that come into the city building would be laughable. Shortly after yesterday's early morning downpour a frantic woman called to report that her basement was filling up with water. "And I have a baby," she exclaimed. Asked if her baby was trapped in the basement, she said no but "all my baby clothes are down there." A sewer department employe was dispatched to the home with a pump and the water was soon pumped out.

Instructions Followed.

Commission delegates, representing the various veterans' clubs throughout the county, had received instructions from their parent organizations prior to the meeting last night.

G. E. Cusic and Carl Kahl were appointed commission delegates to present the point of view of the veterans' organizations to the fair board.

The commission also instructed its delegates to take the question of a proposed Veterans' Homecoming celebration, scheduled to be held July 4 and 5, back to the parent organizations for their opinions as to whether such a celebration is desirable and, if so, suggestions as to the method and a program.

The 37th Division association was host at last night's meeting held in the VFW club rooms, Memorial building. The next meeting of the commission will be Feb. 13, at American Legion, Post No. 72, with the Marine Corps League as hosts.

DEATH HALTS CRIME CAREER

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—When a Mississippi sheriff and a highway patrolman fatally wounded a gunman at Winona Tuesday night, they put an end to a wave of safe robberies in the south and midwest, Mrs. Roberta Deggeller, self-identified widow of the slain man, told state Safety Commissioner C. R. Bradley here.

The woman, who identified the man as Alfred Lish Deggeller, 27, of Columbus, Ohio, was quoted by the commissioner last night as saying that "for several years off and on she and her husband have been making safe robberies in South Dakota, Missouri, Mississippi and other states."

She was quoted by the commissioner as saying that she and her husband usually were accompanied by her two children, Patricia, 6, and Roberta, 4, who were with them at the time of the shooting at Winona. The two children are being kept in a children's home here.

DRIVER WHO AIDED HITCHHIKER SOUGHT

State highway patrolmen sought today to locate the motorist who picked up a hich-hiker at the scene of an accident, Jan. 1, near Crestline, between 10:30 and 11 p. m. on U. S. Route 30-N.

Officers said the hitch-hiker was wanted in connection with the robbery of a car from New York city on Dec. 30. The hitch-hiker, officers explained, was seen to leave a wrecked 1940 Buick sedan at the scene and enter the car of a passing motorist. Patrolmen found no license plates on the car.

They hoped the motorist can furnish a description of the man he picked up and let officers know where he let him out.

The officers said the car, owned by Nathan Leder of New York City, was being held for further investigation.

Agents of the FBI have joined the search since transporting of a stolen car over a state line is a federal offense.
